GERMAN TANKS CRACK FRENCH DEFENSE BUT FALL INTO TRAPS

Italy Warns U.S. To Stay Out of European Strife

Italian Paper Declares 'Time May Come When Great European Power May Intervene' Against America. Charges Aid to Allies.

(By United Press)

ROME—The authoritative newspaper Giornale D'Italia, in an editorial signed by Virginio Gayda, warned the United States today against intervening in the European conflict because the "time might come when some great European power may intervene" against America.

The warning by Gayda, who often speaks for Premier Benito Mussolini, came after the government had warned world shipping that Italian and colonial waters were dangerous, presumably because of mines, and thus indicated intention of joining the war.

If the United States takes sides in the European conflict, the Gayda editorial said, then the time may come when some great European power would intervene in favor of an American nation at war with the United States.

Gayda charged that the United States had aided the Allies since the start of the war.

Saying that the United States would violate the Monroe Doctrine by directly interfering in the affairs of other continents, he continued:

"The United States cannot set itself up as an armed judge of European quarrels, the origins and substance of which—owing to its distance from Europe—it cannot pretend to understand.

"The United States—great and powerful as it may be—must not consider itself invested with a high mission authorizing Washington to decide on the destinies of other continents. Already the United States has been intervening in behalf of the Allies since the first days of the war."

A government communique said that a "strip 12 miles wide circumscribing the coast of Italy and Albania and the empire's colonies and possessions is dangerous for navigation."

The areas mentioned would include the Mediterranean coast of the Italian "boot" and its eastern shore facing Jugoslavia; Albania: the islands of Sardinia and Sicily; the African colonies of Lybia, Eritrea and Italian Somaliland; and the Dodecanese island possessions. These coast lines total roughly 5,000 miles.

Such a mining operation would be one of the most extensive ever undertaken.

Italians talked only of war and the government was exerting all its power preparing for war.

Italy added a new restriction to commerce and communications with the Allied nations and encouraged her people to leave Turkey, a friend of the Allies.

Roosevelt Asks F. B. I. Reinforcement Against Spies

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The government, striving for "total preparedness," synchronized its huge military program today with a comprehensive campaign against "fifth column" threats on the home front.

While congress was being asked to authorize 400,000 troops—almost double the standing army's present strength—President Roosevelt requested $6,558,800 to reinforce the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other justice department units responsible for dealing with subversive activities.

The entry and travel of aliens were placed under drastic restrictions by state department order, which barred admission to the United States to all foreigners unable to prove a "legitimate purpose or reasonable need."

A ban was imposed simultaneously on shore-leave privileges for all foreign seamen whose names are not listed on the visaed crew roster of a ship making port.

2 CHILDREN HIT BY AUTOS ON CITY STREETS

First Grader at Prospect Hurt Seriously Returning From Mailing Letter.

ONE DEAD AT NEW LONDON

Youth, 21, Killed When Tire Blows Out and Upsets on Road; Family Finds Him.

BULLETIN

Evelyn, the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Honse, 166 West Fourth street, was rushed to General hospital at 2 p. m. today with chest and leg injuries received when she was struck by a car reported to have been driven by Frank Miller, 220 Wayne street. According to reports, the little girl ran into the street in front of the approaching car.

Two children, one seven and the other five, were struck by automobiles this morning. One was treated for facial injuries and the other is in General hospital in a serious condition.

While returning from mailing a letter for his widowed mother, Kenneth Workman, 7, son of Mrs. Geneva Workman, 153 Lexington avenue, a first grader at Prospect school, was struck by an automobile driven on Lexington avenue by Mrs. Paul McConnell, 472 Edgewood road. He is in the hospital with a possible skull fracture.

Physicians who described his injuries as "serious," gave him an even chance to live.

Patrolman Frend C. Boals, who investigated the accident, said it was "unavoidable." He said Mrs. McConnell told him the boy stepped in front of her automobile from the curb. She said she did not think he would attempt to cross the street until her machine had passed.

The boy was taken to the hospital by Forrest A. Cleland, 500 Shepard road, passing in his automobile at the time of the accident.

Larry Keeler, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Keeler, 45½ Douglas avenue, was treated for facial injuries sustained shortly before noon when struck by an automobile driven by O. Faye Chamberlain, visiting nurse.

Patrolman Russell Miles said the child was hit when he walked from in front of a parked car into the path of Miss Chamberlin's machine while attempting to cross the street in front of his home.

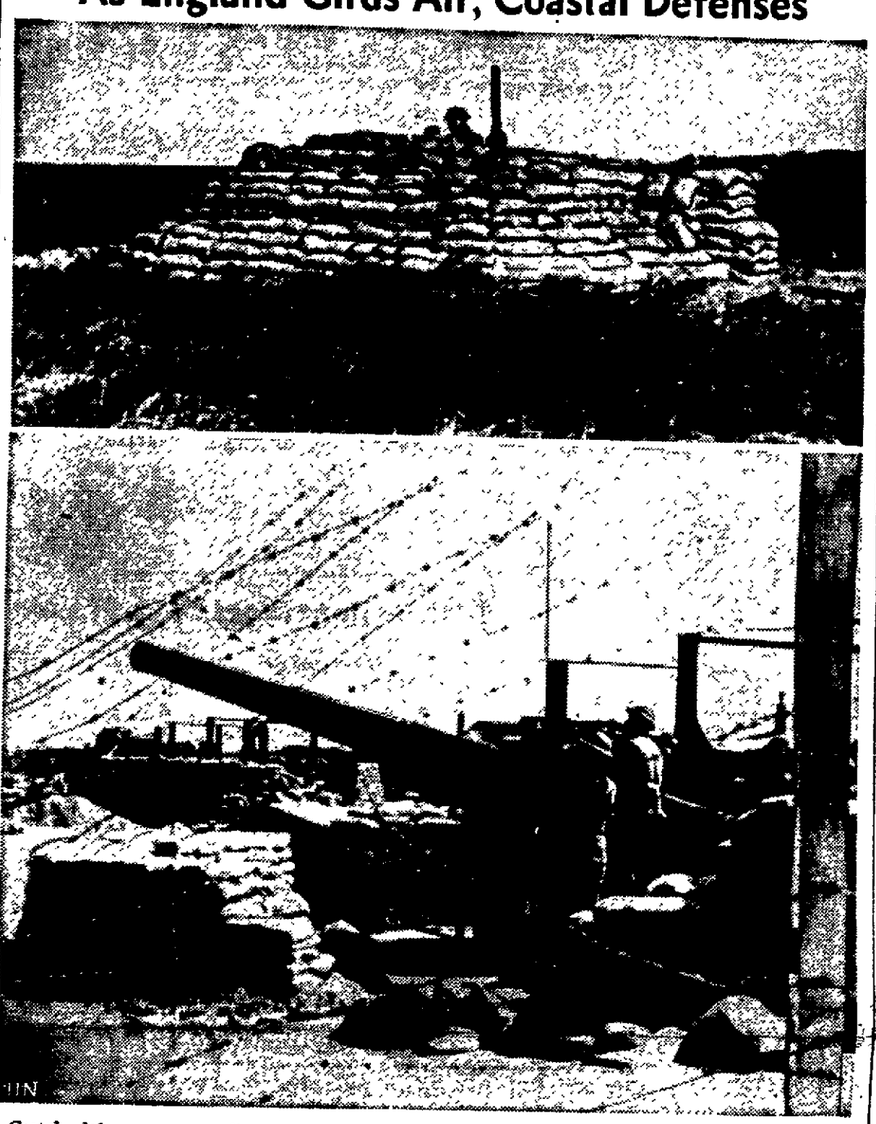
In another accident two miles north of New London today, Delbert Campbell, 21, of near New London, was killed when a tire blew out on the automobile he was driving and the machine turned over.

His body was found near the wreckage of the machine at 6 a. m. today by members of his family who started a search for him when he failed to come home last night.

The youth is survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell with whom he lived, and one brother of New London.

The body was removed to the Fitch funeral home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

As England Girds Air, Coastal Defenses



Costal defenses surrounding the British Isles stand alert and ready to combat any German move toward invasion which now seems momentarily imminent since the German capture of Dunkirk, the Allies' last channel stronghold on the French coast. The top photo shows one of the many anti-aircraft gunners stationed at close intervals along the desolate beaches facing the North sea. Below, one of the heavy caliber coastal defense guns capable of resisting any attempt to land infantry.

Hitler Aims to Capture Paris In Fifteen Days

French Let Mechanized Units Filter Through, Then Cut Them Off; Nazi Progress Admitted By London At Certain Points.

BULLETIN

PARIS—(INS)—Four hundred German tanks which smashed their way between defense bastions of the Weygand line at the outset of the furious new battle of the Somme have been smashed or captured, reliable information in Paris disclosed today as the Nazis renewed the onslaught with increased fury.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—The German high command announced today its troops, on the offensive and pushing toward the heart of France, had gained ground "everywhere" in a sweep toward the southwest. The communique related "successful" German raids last night and early today on Cherbourg, big French channel port; on airdromes in central France and on the east and southeast coast of England.

(By Associated Press)

Fleets of German tanks nosing into France's newly-organized "quicksand" defense system were reported suffering heavy losses on the 200-mile western front today as Nazi plans were reported to call for the capture of Paris within 15 days.

The new French strategy, it was said, permits Nazi "Panzer" forces to filter through defense lines—without attempting to throw infantry into the path of the mechanized monsters.

Then, in an engulfing movement, the French lines quickly close behind the tanks to halt the follow-up rush of German infantry, while the tanks are met by point-blank fire from concealed nests of French 75-millimeter field guns.

Paris reported the efficiency of the new defense traps already had been proven.

Grey hordes of Germans attacked violently at dawn today on the 200-mile western front, Berlin reported, and "thrust into the heart of France" in the great battle for Paris.

Gen. Maxime Weygand's French high command denied any serious break through, admitting only slight strategic withdrawals from lines "too far out in front."

A French military spokesman said the ravaging advances of German tanks had been stopped by newly-devised traps of French 75's. The "blitz" of the Nazi blitzkrieg, he said, has been minimized by a new type of deep "fluid" defenses in the Weygand line.

London acknowledged German progress at certain points in the battle of 2,000,000 men along the

British Prepare Defense Against Blitzkrieg Invasion

By WALLACE CARROLL
(UP Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—Picked marksmen of the British parashoot corps stood by with rifles and machine guns today, expecting a German blitzkrieg invasion attempt, as German planes raided a 250-mile stretch of the English coast.

After a survey of the raid area, extending from Yorkshire to Kent, south of the Thames, authorities expressed belief that the German planes had sought to knock out Royal Air Force airdromes, from which British planes are attacking their army on the Somme and bombing military objectives over a wide area in Germany proper.

But the raid was regarded as a prelude to an invasion which was believed now to be not only certain but imminent, and the parashooters took no chances.

The raids were called officially the first "business" ones of the entire war on the English coast. There was no indication that serious damage had been done and casualty reports listed only six persons slightly wounded, but it was expected that more, and more determined raids, would come.

There had been one previous German raid along the same coastal stretch. But it had been apparently without real motive.

Today's raids, starting shortly after midnight, seemed definitely pointed at wrecking the airports.

There had been an air raid alarm at one part of the east coast late yesterday.

At midnight, German planes, evidently in great force because of the long coastal stretch involved, were heard coming in from the sea at various points. There was no general air raid alarm all night, but at some points where villages or towns were in the target zone, air raid wardens blew their whistles as a signal for residents to take cover.

The first word of attack came from Yorkshire. Bombs dropped near one village without doing damage. Two unexploded bombs fell near another village. A number of high explosive bombs dropped into the sea. Yorkshire heard German planes until after 2:30 A. M.

North Lincolnshire heard planes between 12:30 and 2:30. British fighter planes were heard in action as they went out to met the invaders. Searchlight beams played all along the Lincolnshire coast.

CITE FIVE IN TRAFFIC DRIVE

Highway Patrol Makes Arrests In Plymouth Vicinity.

Intensifying their drive to curb reckless operation of motor vehicles on Richland county highways, the state highway patrol last night cited five motorists on traffic violations in the vicinity of Plymouth, it was reported today.

The violators are to be arraigned before Mayor W. M. John of Plymouth, four of them today and the fifth tomorrow. Two were cited for driving with insufficient lights, two for operating a truck with an overload and one for unsafe driving.

Cited for operating an automobile with insufficient lights were Luella Entler, R. D. 1, Plymouth, and Proctor L. Steele of Tiro. Both were arrested last night on route 98, south of Plymouth. Miss Entler will be arraigned at 8:30 p. m. today and Steele at 8 p. m.

Albert B. Fountain of Detroit and Orville Lust of R. D. 1, Chatfield, were cited on overload charges, and each posted a bond of $35.

Fountain was arrested last night on route 61, near Plymouth, and will be arraigned at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, and Lust, also arrested on route 61, was to be arraigned at 1 p. m. today.

Kenneth Donnenwirth was the lone driver cited on charges of unsafe driving. He was arrested about 11 p. m. on route 61, south of Plymouth, and is to be arraigned at 8 p. m. today.

RELIEF DROPS

Elyria Has Only 24 Active Cases on Rolls.

ELYRIA—(AP)—A 50 per cent drop in Elyria's poor relief load last month left only 24 active cases on the city's rolls today.

Mrs. Marie S. Gilman, city relief director, attributed the reduction to a spurt in private employment.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY ON THE BATTLE FRONT—(INS)—In the bottomless well of exhausted sleep I felt a massive hammering on my eardrums.

I stirred, listened and wondered, then jumped to the window and looked down the village street behind the lines to see the French strike back at the Germans in this greatest phase of the greatest battle of our times.

So this was the grand German offensive and this was the French reply.

Beneath me in pitch blackness rolled, crashed and thundered more guns, armored cars and trucks than I ever thought the French army possessed.

It was two hours before day-

Man, 24, Held on Charge of Assaulting High School Girl

A 24-year-old man was held in jail under $5,000 bond today on a charge of criminally assaulting a 15-year-old Senior high school girl.

James D. Foster, 156 Hammond avenue, will be arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court tomorrow afternoon. He pleaded innocent to the charge this morning and asked for continuance.

Foster was arrested by police yesterday after charges had been filed by the girl's mother.

County Prosecutor G. W. Marriott said his investigation disclosed that the girl had been attacked by the man after he had driven her in his car to a country road east of the city.

According to the girl's story, Marriott said, she had met Foster while she and an 18-year-old companion were on their way back to school Tuesday noon.

The girl said the man persuaded them to "play hookey" and that he took them to a carnival at Shelby and then visited Sandusky, during which time, she related, he had bought them several intoxicating drinks.

Returning to Mansfield in the evening, the girl told the prosecutor that they let the other girl out of the car and that Foster took her to a restaurant on Ashland road where they had supper. She said he refused to take her home and about 1 a. m. yesterday drove her to a road off U. S. route 30 where he assaulted her.

Authorities said the man, who came to Mansfield recently from the south, was married and that his wife is an expectant mother.

LISTS BIDS BY 8 CONTRACTORS ON 5 STREETS

City Officials Get Set To Award Contracts on Sewer And Graveling Jobs.

City officials today had under consideration bids submitted by eight firms on improvements planned for five streets in southwest Mansfield.

Tabulation of the proposals, including the grading and graveling of Poplar, Sloane and Barnard avenues, and the construction of a sanitary sewer on Overlook avenue, Coleman road and Barnard and Sloan avenues, was completed by city engineers yesterday.

On the Poplar and Sloan avenue improvements the low bid was submitted by R. O. Darling and Son who quoted a price of $2,800. This was $238 lower than the closest competitor, Roger J. Au, who asked a price of $3,039.

Other proposals submitted were George B. Herring and Son, $3,473; G. L. Rogers, $3,820.10; Richard A. Thayer, Galion, $3,892; Thompson-Coni and company, Columbus, $4,797.

On the Barnard avenue improvement, Darling was low with a bid of $1,628. Au submitted a proposal of $1,637, and Herring, $1,640.50.

Au submitted a price of $4,660.75 on the sanitary sewer project underbidding his closest competitor, Darling, who quoted a price of $4,944.45 by more than $300.

Thompson-Coni submitted a price of $6,617.50; the Dell Construction company, Cleveland, $8,014, and Frank Morelli, Ft. Wayne, Ind., $13,918.

Vermont Has New Regulations For Roadside Signs

MONTPELIER, Vt.—(U.P.)—Vermont's outdoor advertising law became stricter this year with the enactment of new amendments, which resulted from a drive for an "unspoiled Vermont."

Every outdoor sign requires a $1 fee and the larger ones cannot be erected until a fee of 2½ cents a square foot is paid.

In past years election posters have been exempt because of a ruling that signs smaller than 6 square feet could be erected free, but that has been changed so there are no exemptions. Political candidates will have to pay one dollar for every poster.

No sign can be displayed within 300 feet of any public park, playground or cemetery; signs of 300 square feet must be at least 300 feet from the traveled part of a public highway and signs are banned within 300 feet of a highway intersection or a railroad crossing.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Why? Why had Julian just said they should not get to know each other too well?

Brooke looked at him, splendid physically, stretched full length upon the sand, his body still tanned from his winter holiday in Nassau The first time she saw him Rod had said that he was just back from Nassau . She thought, I'd like to see him in court, arguing a case He'd be ruthless if he were certain he was right. . . .

Her eyes traveled to his face, to the lean jaw, the straight nose the full-lipped mouth and to the thick fair lashes that shielded the clear blue eyes.

"Brooke . "

The sound of her name by his voice shook her And she seemed to wait a long time before he asked, "Do you play tennis?"

I used to a long time ago with Rod. . . . "Yes Have you racquets?"

"I think I can dig up a couple if the children haven't used them for toys Tomorrow morning?"

"You've had a long drive and you must be very tired"

* * *

She did not know whether he slept but he lay with his eyes closed until nursemaids called the sunburned children from the water, dried them and took them away, and the other bathers had gone She sat upright, hugging her knees loving the touch of the sun, the vast expanse of sea and sky, the vital air, achieving a height of happiness that exceeded any she had felt for months It had been such a long way back to a beach in Maine to which her mother had brought her as a child . New Hampshire, New York California, Honolulu and three men . . . A long way back to find herself beside Julian Carlton on a warm July day

Against her will, as if she had no command of it, her heart stirred restlessly when she looked at him again, wondering still if he were sleeping Against her will too she thought, "I want him to open his eyes and look at me and speak to me . . . I want him to touch me He has never touched me

Julian sat upright presently and picked up his robe

"Sorry to be so dull," he said, "I am tired and I think I'll get in a nap before dinner. I'll call for you about 7 And don't bother about dressing very much When you have five children and one servant, informality just must be the rule"

She left him and walked back to the cottage, unmindful of the interest she, a newcomer, aroused, conscious only of the clamoring of her heart, of a song long silenced and began again, a new song, stirring and demanding, and yet infinitely tender . .

His name echoed in her mind as she dressed, puttting on a green overall linen frock and a short-sleeved peasant blouse and multi-colored sandals She touched her warm face By Monday it would be brown Her thoughts wandered . Monday at home, her stepmother apologetic and falsely glad to see her, her father only mildly interested in her . . . New York and Wilson Stone, the small hotel room . Those things and those people were her life' They were real, tangible There was nothing tangible in the clamoring of her heart and the echoing of a man's name in her thoughts . .

But when, standing by the window she saw Julian wearing white trousers a brown coat and a brown sport shirt, she knew suddenly that of all things and of all pople he was the most real . . "Julian, I'm falling in love with you" . She knew not whence the words came nor why All at once it was enough to know that she was happy and that the few moments that separated them were too long

He looked up and saw her and lifted his hand in greeting

* * *

She went down to him slowly, and they walked to a small white house and were met by Wilma Sterling his sister, a tall young woman with auburn hair delicately chiseled features and animated brown eyes. She wore a dark linen frock and low-heeled straw sandals

Holding out a sunburned hand to Brooke, Wilma Sterling said in clear deep tones not unlike her brother's voice, "Hello, dear How nice that you could come! I wish I could have you here but five children are a houseful And I'll have to issue a quiet warning because young David will never go to sleep if he suspects I'm having a guest. We'll have drinks on the veranda if you will mix them, Julian."

Luckily Brooke found conversation with her easy for it was difficult to concentrate because the message of her heart was telegraphing to her mind Like a warm tide the new song, demanding but sweet, rushed over her . . .

* * *

Paul, Wilma's husband, would join them in two weeks, Wilma said In the meantime, she said to Julian who appeared with drinks, it would be convenient to have a man around Between brother and sister Brooke sensed respect and understanding and admiration while they drank tart, delicious drinks before a neat little maid announced dinner Even at dinner they spoke low lest the vigilant David suspect the presence of a guest and demand loudly to see her.

Beneath the casual talk that passed the hours before midnight, Brooke felt as if an intense flame burned within her This man opposite her with his keen knowing eyes and a clean swift smile . . Julian . . Her thoughts were in chaos again but they were happily chaotic Happy? Yes, intensely, richly so Her face was touched with radience by Julian who had never touched her . .

They walked back together along a street warm and bright and thickly peopled by day cool and dim and deserted by night

"Wilma is not unlike you, Julian" She felt that her voice betrayed her

"You'd like Paul," he said "The atmosphere of their home is one of informality and children and laughter. Paul is a teacher and happily oblivious to the temptations of money"

"That's refreshing"

On the veranda she turned and looked up She knew now. She couldn't explain it . but she knew. Nor did she wish to explain it or analyze it or fight against it. . . .

"Are you going to sleep as long as you like and as long as I hope to?" he asked "Though I'll probably be awakened by the baby who is cutting a tooth or the blast of horns."

"And I by the ghost of an alarm clock. . . ."

"Slaves to routine." He looked at her, her face flushed, her eyes luminous, her hair still damp but shining . . . "Good-night, Brooke."

* * *

In her room she opened the window wide, filling the room with the pounding of the sea What had happened to her old love, her stubborn love for Rod, a love which had admired him and excused him? She tried to recall him but only Julian was vivid and close and real tonight. A passing thing, this, which would explode to bits by morning, leaving her with the familiar ache she had come to recognize as longing for Rod? Would she ever know? Would the old continue to clash with the new, reducing her to an emotional seesaw?

She slept more soundly than she had slept for weeks. Awakened at 7 by the ghost of the little white clock on the table beside her bed in New York, she sat up for a moment and then went back to sleep again gratefully. It was nearly 11 o'clock when she went to the beach and dropped on her knees beside Julian

"Didn't we say something about tennis this morning?" he asked. "I forgot, too. We'll get a court this afternoon. Put on your cap. . . ."

STORE UP IRON for YOUR BLOOD
Get Vitamin B1 for your Nerves
When the body craves these vital elements, a rich supply can put color in your cheeks and help you feel like a new person WITHOUT ALCOHOL OR HABIT-FORMING DRUGS.
When your system is low in iron and Vitamin B1 many vital organs slow down—you often look pale, lose your appetite, get tired easily, sleep poorly, and feel nervous and played out Iron helps make red blood, and red blood is vital for healthy muscles, healthy skin, healthy glands and healthy organs Iron-poor blood may cause low vitality, heart palpitations, shortness of breath, swollen ankles and frequent periods of ill health
You need Vitamin B1 and if you don't have enough Vitamin B1 you may get a painful neuritis stomach upsets constipation weak appetite, mental depression, restless sleep.
In these conditions take ENRICH the thrilling new tonic that tastes like juice of wild berries and gives you more iron every day than 6 lbs of spinach or 6 lbs of raisins, more Vitamin B1 daily than ¼ lb of baker's yeast. Your pep comes back with a bounce when you restore missing iron and Vitamin B1 and you eat more stop worrying, and sleep better, Right in this neighborhood, many men women and children feel keen and lead happier lives, through the help of ENRICH. Don't wait ENRICH costs only a few cents a day Money refunded unless ENRICH improves your state of well-being.

RICHLAND WAR RELIEF FUND NEARS $8,000

Mansfield and Shelby Exceed Quotas in Red Cross Drive For European Aid.

The Richland county chapter of the Red Cross war relief fund crept nearer the $8,000 mark today, which officials believed would be reached before the end of the week.

Total contributions for the city and county were $7,813 today, of which Shelby has given $1,398, Mansfield $6,023, and the county $392. Both Mansfield and Shelby have topped their first quotas. The war relief fund, however, will remain open as the original quota of $6,000 for the chapter, has been doubled.

The American Red Cross first asked for a war relief chest of $10,000,000, but as the scope of devastation and misery spread, the sum was doubled. To date the national organization reports a total of $6,591,160.

This fund has been contributed from every strata of society in the United States, from millionaires to scrubwomen, from children's penny banks to old age pensioners. Two letters received at the national Red Cross office the same day were from Millionaire William B. Leeds, New York City, who sent a check for $15,000, and from a Los Angeles woman who scrubs floors. In her note, with a contribution of two $1 bills, she said: "Even while scrubbing floors today, I thought of how much better off I am than any of the poor people in the war countries."

A number of Mansfield people have called to ask the Red Cross office why they haven't been solicited in the drive. D. O. Meese, general chairman of the drive, said that there had been no general or house to house solicitation nor are they planned at this time, so that individuals who want to contribute their bit to aid the victims of the war may do so by sending checks or bills to Red Cross headquarters, Bowers building, or by bringing it in person. If there are persons who want to give and are unable to get to the office or send the money, a call to Red Cross headquarters will bring a messenger after it.

IN THE MONEY

Britain Has 1,024 Citizens In Very Wealthy Class.

LONDON —(INS)— Britain now has 1,024 citizens in the very wealthy class.

Taking those in this class as people with incomes exceeding 30,000 pounds ($150,000) a year, the latest figures issued by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue show an addition of 107 in a year.

Ninety-nine people earn more than $500,000 a year, 85 earn up to $500,000, and 292 have incomes reaching $375,000.

Down the scale 3,900,000 persons have incomes in the region of $10,000 a year. Last year Britain had a gross income of $20,800,000—just enough to pay for 693 days of warfare.

CCC WORKERS PLANTING TWO BILLION TREES

Program Far From Finished Declares Conservation Corps Director.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— More than 2,000,000,000 trees will have been planted by the Civilian Conservation Corps when enrollees complete their 1940 program, according to James J .McEntee, CCC director.

The 1940 program includes the planting of 200,000,000 trees to reforest public lands and 100,000,000 seedlings and young trees on erosion control projects, he said. Most of the CCC's reforestation plantings are planned and supervised by the Forestry Service, while the Soil Conservation Service supervises plantings on erosion control projects. Interior Department agencies supervise planting in other areas.

About 1,800,000,000 trees already have been planted. Michigan led with 419,000,000 trees, followed by Wisconsin with 328,000,000. Other high states were: New York, 171,000,000 Louisiana, 152,000,000; Mississippi, 110,500,000, and Minnesota, 93,000,000.

"The Civilian Conservation Corps. working in co-operation with Federal and state conservation agencies, is making a dent in the national tree planting job," MsEntee said. "An enormous amount of work remains to be done if the nation is to restore the millions of acres of barren and only part stocked forest lands primarily suited to the growing of timber.

"These lands have been so excessively cut over and burned over that they will not renew themselves through natural reproduction. Federal conservation authorities state there are some 138,00,000 acres of treeless or only partly stocked lands which might well be producing some human benefits.

"Tree planting is a permanent investment for the future. Over the last seven years we have been planting trees for reforestation purposes at a rate slightly in excess of 250,000,000 trees annually. To maintain this rate it was necessary for the corps to increase the capacity of tree nurseries, to collect millions of pounds of seeds and hundreds of thousands of bushels of cones and tree nuts to aid in the growing of trees at nurseries. The nation is now geared to plant between 250,000,000 and 400,000,000 seedlings annually for an indefinite period in the future. About 1,000 trees are planted per acre."

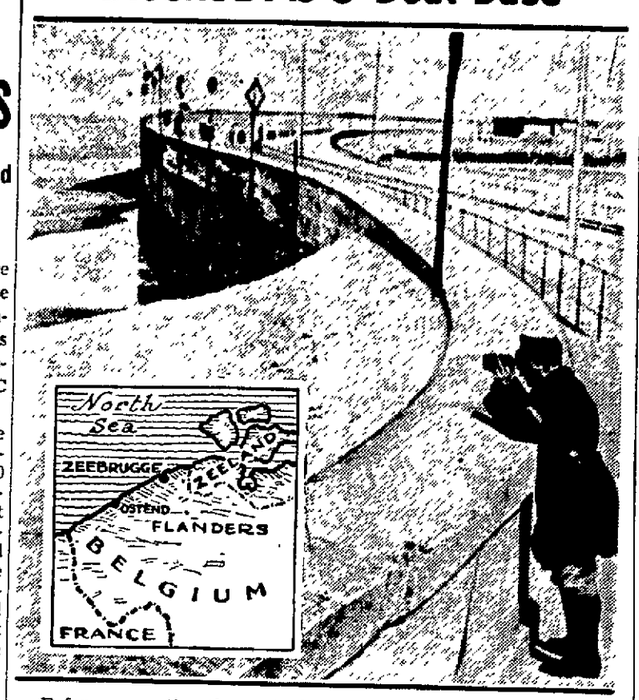
Blocked As U-Boat Base



Before evacuating the port of Zeebrugge (see map), in Belgium, the British sank concrete-filled ships, blocking the port as a U-boat base for the German navy. A Belgium soldier looks out over the sea wall which, it is reported, was almost completely destroyed by aerial bombardment.

ASKS COUNCIL FOR EQUIPMENT

Water, Sewer Department Head Seeks Machine to Mark 10,000 Statements.

City council had before it today a request from Fred A. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage departments, for the installation of a new bookkeeping machine in the municipal office.

Lingafelter is seeking the new machine to expediate the handling of water and sewer billing and eliminate the necessity of marking by hand some 10,000 bills with water and sewer charges.

With present office ledger cards due to be replaced this fall, Lingafelter said he is seeking a dual ledger system of keeping water and sewer accounts on one card.

He advocated the purchase of a dual purpose bookkeeping machine for operation in conjunction with the system, estimating the cost of the equipment at $2,100.

The present machine, he told council, is about 10 years old and was purchased at a cost of $1,500 for billing only water on the semi-annual statements.

In citing the need for the equipment he pointed out that funds were available in the water and sewer department surpluses to meet the cost.

PUGET SOUND BUILDS SHIPS

Five Vessels Rushed Through On Schedule In Maritime Commission Project.

TACOMA, Wash. —(U.P.)— Puget Sound's largest shipbuilding project since the World War is being rushed through on schedule.

First of five ships being built for the U. S. Maritime Commission by the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Corporation already is 40 per cent completed and will be launched Sept. 1.

Nearby the hull of the second vessel is about 10 per cent completed.

The project employes 600 men working two shifts. Vessels are of the large 12,875-ton cargo-carrying type with passenger accommodations for 12. The yard permits the ships to be assembled section by section, each of which weigh as much as 40 tons. They require the services of two powerful cranes to be moved from the dockside to the ways.

Machinery and other furnishings of the ships will be installed at the Todd drydocks in Seattle.

MORE JOBS DUE FOR GRADUATES SAY EDUCATORS

Uphold Hoover Prophecy That Majority Will Find Work Within Few Months.

SAN JOSE, Cal —(U P)— Employment opportunities for this year's nationwide crop of college graduates are as good as, if not better than, at any other period in the nation's history, according to a faculty group at San Jose State College, which specializes on youth problems.

The group supports the recent declaration of former President Herbert Hoover that the majority of the graduates will find jobs within a month or two after leaving college.

"Any man or woman who has been graduated from college and wants to work badly enough will get a job, unless he is either very unfortunate or there is something lacking in his preparation," declared Paul M Pitman, dean of men.

Job Choice Discouraged.

"It is well therefore for the college graduate to take the first job he can get, bearing in mind that in all probability in 10 years about 50 per cent of them will be engaged in entirely different fields from those which they first entered"

Dr James C DeVoss, head of the personnel and psychology department holds that students graduating this year will have the best chance in the past 10 years to land a job quickly.

"Employment opportunities of today are as great as at any other time for students who will apply themselves and not be satisfied to remain ordinary and mediocre," declared Dr. Earl W Atkinson, head of the commerce department

Technical Field Open.

Dr. William Poytress, director of the social science department, believes this year's crop of college graduates will be most likely to find jobs in the technical lines. "This is the field where there exists the most predictable expansion of jobs," he said.

Dr. Poytress believes that if a Republican President is elected this year there will be a short spurt in employment. He predicts, however, that such an increased employment would only be temporary.

Listed as overcrowded fields by some of the educators composing the Youth Problem group are law, high school English and social science teaching, forestry and engineering

Other members of the group list as the best opportunities for getting a job quickly are for those who have trained in scientific agriculture, legislative law, home economics, skilled mechanical trades, politics and government positions, and high grade salesmanship.

Hotel Lancaster Built on Mansfield Plan

Patterned after the Mansfield-Leland hotel from a financial standpoint, the hotel shown above was opened at Lancaster yesterday as a highlight of that city's Parade of Progress celebration A group of Lancaster business men on a visit to Mansfield, saw how Mansfield's hotel was financed and launched a similar campaign there with the result that 1,000 Lancaster citizens subscribed to a stock campaign Shown in the inset at the right is the operator of the hotel, Theodore DeWitt, who also operates the Neil House in Columbus, Cleveland's Hollenden, and Akron's Mayflower R Kenneth Kerr, publisher of the Lancaster Eagle-Gazette, heads the Community hotel company which raised the funds to finance the structure.

SOCIETY MEETS

BELLVILLE — Fourteen members of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid society met at the home of Mrs Millie Gregg for their regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon. The devotionals were led by Mrs. Ida Watson and Mrs. Millie Gregg conducted the business period.

Plans were made to have a father-son banquet on Friday evening, June 14. The next meeting will be an all day picnic

STAIR CASE

Thieves Have Egress Stolen Out From Under Them.

BUTTE, Mont. —(AP)— Embarrassing, no end, was the situation in which two Butte second-story men found themselves. While they were at work on the second floor of an abandoned home, looting it of plumbing fixtures, a couple of other thieves dismantled the staircase and carried it away.

It left the s. s. men no alternative but to hop out of a s. s. window.

JAPS FACING DIFFICULTIES IN NORTH CHINA

Conquered Area Appears Flat on Its Economic Back Despite Efforts.

PEIPING, North China—(AP)—Although subject to the most intensive Japanese development of any of the occupied areas, North China today has the outward appearance of being flat on its economic back

Stunned and ravaged by the war, it has been plagued with drought, floods, and grasshoppers.

Living costs of the common people have increased almost four-fold since 1936. The fiat third of the original buying currency introduced by the Japanese has fallen to one-power. Wages of the common people have increased at most only fifty per cent.

Large sections of the population are either going hungry or existing on food commonly fed only to horses and cattle.

The conquering Japanese too, are feeling the pinch. Their plans for developing North China are being repeatedly altered and scaled down as they realize their own limitations.

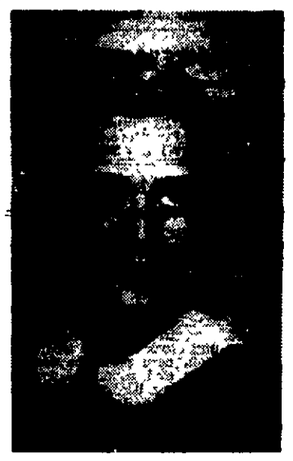
Their cotton program, formerly one of the brightest Japanese hopes for this region, is commonly admitted a failure. Guerrillas in the producing areas got farmers to raise food instead of cotton. Result: very little Chinese cotton for Japanese mills

This year the Japanese are starting all over again, distributing over 600 tons of cotton seed to the farmers in certain areas. If the last year's tactics are repeated, the farmers will be compelled to grow the cotton throughout the entire designated acreage and sell it at Japanese prices.

North China is rich in coal. Japan is chronically short of it. The Japanese are taking all they can get for transport to Japan; still there is not enough for Japanese needs Meanwhile, coal is expensive and scarce here. Even Mukden, near one of the largest coal mines in the world, has a shortage of coal.

Typical of Japanese efforts to meet the situation are plans for increasing the coal output of North China 20 per cent during 1940, and at the same time increasing shipment of it to Japan by 40 per cent. This will undoubtedly mean less coal and more expensive coal for North China, which produces it.

Mansfielder Has Part In Play at Otterbein College



BETTE GREENE.

Miss Bette Greene of Mansfield, will take part in "A Full House," Otterbein college commencement play, to be presented in the college band shell in Westerville, Saturday night A three-act farce, the play has a cast of 12.

Miss Greene, daughter of Mrs. R. F. Greene, of R. F. D. 3, is active in student affairs, being a member of the Cochran hall board, governing group of one of the girls' dormitories, and being recently elected student council representative of next year's junior class.

In the spring prose contest of the college Quiz and Quill literary magazine, she won second place with her short story, "Pancaked."

LESS CRIME IN UTAH

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(U P)—Crime decreased in Utah during the last seven years, Jay C Newman, Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, disclosed. His statistics showed murders dropped from 4 7 per 10,000 to 3 2; robberies from 80.1 to 49.7 and automobile thefts from 487 to 273 6.

The combine that makes it possible to thresh earlier in the morning and later at night — more threshing hours per day with less risk of crop loss—and more profit to you. Has a full six-foot cutter bar, five-foot rasp bar cylinder and straight-through separation. It's the logical successor to the small power take-off combine, bringing in the crop with the same efficiency and speed as large motor-driven combines.

PAM—A Terrible Possibility! By A. W. Brewerton

THAT'S RIGHT, COLONEL, I WORKED ON THAT MOB CHIEF, DAN WILD, AS I DID ON HARDESTY, AND THEN THREW THEM TOGETHER—AND YOU SHOULD HAVE HEARD THEM ACCUSING EACH OTHER!—WE GOT ENOUGH TO PUT THEM ALL A-WAY FOR GOOD!
THAT WAS FINE WORK, GORDON!
HOW ABOUT THE WIDOW?
I WAS ABLE TO SAVE HER PROPERTY FOR HER, BUT IT WAS A CLOSE CALL! SHE IS TRULY GRATEFUL TO EVERY ONE WHO HELPED HER! —BUT I'M ANXIOUS ABOUT PAMELA!
I'VE JUST BEEN BACK TO THE HOSPITAL, COLONEL—
—AND—I'M GREATLY WORRIED ABOUT HER!
SHE IS SO BADLY INJURED?
THEY CAN'T TELL YET!—NOT TILL THEY REMOVE THE BANDAGE, BUT——THE DOCTOR FEARS THE OPTIC NERVE MAY BE INJURED!—SHE COMPLAINED THAT SHE COULDN'T SEE, WHEN I GOT HER OUT OF THE WRECK! —COLONEL, TO BE FRANK WITH YOU—PAM MAY BE BLIND!

Aircrafts Also Attracting Mild Support; Commodities, Bonds Are Mixed.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Speculative war nerves seemed to have relaxed a trifle in today's stock market and selected issues, led by steels, engaged in a mild recovery move. Business news, generally favorable, received a little attention.

Bonds and commodities were a shade mixed. "Free" sterling and the French franc were a shade lower in terms of the dollar.

Stocks receiving support at one time or another included U. S. Steel, Republic, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry and American Telephone.

Commission house pessimists found further fuel in the announcement of a stock exchange seat sale for $39,000, off $3,000 from a previous transaction at a bottom marks since 1915.

Market analysts were not particularly depressed by a sharp decline in the country's bank clearings for the 5-day week ended yesterday.

ARMORY LOOTED

Theft of Ohio National Guard Ammunition Probed.

CINCINNATI — (INS) — Cincinnati police and federal bureau of investigation agents today investigated the theft of 9,890 rounds of .22 caliber ammunition from the National Guard armory. The robbers, police said, gained entrance with the aid of keys to a supply room and cupboard.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Radio Stolen—The theft of a $25 radio from her home yesterday was reported to police by Mrs. Dorothy Scott, 36 Buckingham street.

Answer Alarm—Two fire companies were called to the home of R. R. Beal, 50 Mansfield avenue, at 7.36 p. m. yesterday. Firemen said meat being cooked on a stove had caught fire.

Park to Open—The G. B. U. park north of Mansfield will open for the summer next Sunday with a picnic to which the public is invited. Anton Maurer, president of the organization, is in charge of arrangements.

Meets Tonight — The county Workers Alliance will meet at 7:30 p. m. today at headquarters, 15½ North Park street, John Sparks, Alliance president, announced today. WPA job stewards will meet at 7 p. m. at the same place, he said.

Faculty Picnics — Picnics for teachers at Mansfield's two junior high schools were held yesterday evening. The Johnny Appleseed faculty picnic was held at Middle park, while teachers at John Simpson held annual outing at Sugar Grove lake, near Galion.

Request Fans—Volunteer workers at the Red Cross sewing rooms on West Fourth street are asking for the loan of unused electric fans. They will be responsible for them and the fans will be returned at the end of the summer. Anyone having a fan to loan the workers may contact them through Red Cross headquarters.

MURDER TRIAL NEARING END

Arguments Presented on State Exhibits in Slater First Degree Case.

(By International News Service)

BELLEFONTAINE — Common Pleas Judge Lawrence Zupp was to hear arguments today on the admissibility of 19 additional state exhibits as the prosecution neared the end of its case in the first degree murder trial of Donald Slater, 18, accused of the hammer slaying of Fred Jenkins.

Testifying before a jury of 10 men and two women, Sheriff Charles Bewly quoted Slater as saying that Jenkins still was alive when he was removed from his nearby Huntsville home after being bludgeoned with a hammer. Jenkins' body was found in a ravine near Miamisburg.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Hannum corroborated Bewly's testimony, and added that Slater told him that "Jenkins was asleep when I hit him."

Hannum said the defendant told him that the victim was breathing when he allegedly was placed in Mrs. Jenkins' auto. Bewly added that Slater admitted to him that Jenkins was breathing "and making a noise" halfway between Huntsville and Bellefontaine.

Yesterday Judge Zupp ruled that Slater had signed "without duress" a statement linking him with the slaying of Jenkins; a telegraph operator, Mrs. Minnie Jenkins, wife of the victim, and a son, Merlin, also are awaiting trial in connection with the slaying.

INDOOR PICNIC

County Employes Brave Heat to Enjoy Supper, Program.

Despite the sweltering weather 90 county officials and employes and their guests attended an indoor picnic last night at the Schwarz tavern on Lexington avenue.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston and Probate Judge C. J. Anderson gave brief talks during a program which followed a chicken supper. P. S. Carroll, clerk of the board of county commissioners, was general chairman in charge of arrangements and presided as toastmaster.

After supper the group had a song fest on the lawn back of the tavern. The officials and employes are planning a picnic for later in the summer.

SLEEPY JUROR UPSETS TRIAL

Attorney Protests, Judge Becomes Disgusted.

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—An attorney protested when a juror hearing testimony in a $10,000 damage suit fell asleep, so the judge called a five-minute recess.

The sleepy juror appeared wide-awake when the jury filed back in, but soon drifted off to sleep again. The disgusted judge declared in mistrial, then began over with another jury of six.

This time, however, a seventh juror sat alone in the rear row, ready to serve if one of the regulars couldn't resist a nap.

25 FROM CITY EXPECTED FOR ELYRIA PARLEY

Mansfield Social Workers To Hear Speakers Discuss Youth Problems.

At least 25 Mansfield social workers are expected to attend the first regional welfare conference to be held at the First Congregational church in Elyria tomorrow.

Similar conferences are being held all over the state with counties arranged in regional groups, and the work is done in connection with the Ohio Welfare Conference program.

District 2 is made up of Richland, Ashland, Wayne, Summit, Erie, Huron, Medina, Lorain and Cuyahoga counties. About 300 persons are expected to attend. Temporary officers have been set up until a permanent organization is established at the conference. Miss Esther Barnett, Richland county probation officer, is on the program committee.

The theme of the all-day program will be "Youth Today—Citizen Tomorrow." Several speakers will lead panel discussions. Henry C. Schumacher, M. D. Cleveland Guidance Center, will lead in a discussion of "The Home—It's Contribution to Youth" at the opening session at 10 a. m. "The Community—Its Provision For Children Without Homes" will be discussed by Rev. A. J. Murphy, Ph D, director of Catholic Charities of Cleveland, also on the morning program.

Speaks at Luncheon.

The luncheon speaker will be Capt. Harold L. Hays, superintendent of the Boys Industrial school at Lancaster, who recently instituted a new system of government at the school. He will speak on "Youth in a Democracy."

Three speakers on the afternoon program are P. C. Bunn, superintendent of the Lorain public schools, who will speak on "The School—Its Contributions to Youth"; J. Norman Thompson, director of the Lorain county recreation project whose subject will be recreation for youth, and Oscar A. Hunsicker, judge of the Summit County Juvenile court.

The conference is open to any person interested in welfare problems. Reservations for the luncheon may be made with Miss Barnett at the probate court office.

PLAN PROGRAM

'Family Night' to Be Held at Ontario Church.

"Family Night" will be observed tomorrow evening at the Ontario Community church in conjunction with a series of special services now in progress at the church.

Special recognition will be given the largest single family in attendance and to the largest family group. Music will be furnished with children of the church taking part.

Services in the series are being conducted by Harold Meade, evangelistic song leader, and began at 8 p m In addition to the nightly services, special services are held each morning at 9 30 by Meade More than 100 children have attended these meetings.

English Newsboys Imitate American Selling Methods

LONDON —(INS)— Shortage of paper in England has resulted in the disappearance of newspaper contents bills from the streets.

Newsboys have now adopted the American method of selling their papers by yelling out the most sensational story of the day, and imploring the population to "read it."

So severe is the paper shortage that newspapers are only being printed to the number of requests previously received.

News agents can no longer secure newspapers or periodicals on "sale and return" basis.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1940.

There are times when people without imagination are lucky, and maybe this is one of them.

Recommended for a commemorative stamp: Noah, who was building an ark while his neighbors were singing, "It ain't goin' to rain no more."

The industrial world offers endless challenges to American youth to conquer new frontiers through science and chemistry, says a chemical engineer. This country was developed by succeeding generations of youth who accepted such challenges without waiting for guarantees of success.

Vital Part of Education

YOUNG PEOPLE who are being graduated from high schools and colleges this month cannot be blamed for a disturbed feeling as to what the future may hold for them.

Unless the education they have acquired from text books and teachers has been supplemented by home training, religious instruction and basic knowledge of the privileges and responsibilities of American citizenship, they may find themselves poorly prepared to cope with difficulties which they cannot hope to escape.

While each generation has been called upon to solve its own problems, and the task has never been easy, the present world situation appears to make a special demand for clear thinking on matters which will vitally affect the future of this country, and each individual therein.

Reports from schools in various parts of the country tell of boys and girls of student age who are apparently unable to realize the gulf that separates the slave life of totalitarian states from the free life of democratic nations such as this.

Among some young people, untutored in the principles of Americanism, there has been cynical expressions of belief that all nations and their governments are much alike, and that in the line-up of the present European war there is nothing to choose between the two sides.

If such a state of mind exists to any considerable extent among young people in the United States, either the schools, homes, or both, have been failing in their duty, which includes such teaching as will lead children naturally into an understanding of the greater freedom they are privileged to enjoy in the United States than in any other country in the world, as well as the larger opportunities they will have to succeed in life.

In accepting this heritage of freedom it is the job of every American to help make sure that "government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth"—and a part of this great task must rest upon those young men and women who are now being graduated from schools and colleges.

See Need for Parking Meters

AFTER a year of experimenting with "enforcement" as a means of preventing overtime parking in the business district, without material improvement in conditions, attention is again being given to the advisability of installing parking meters on some of the downtown streets.

Earlier approval of this proposal by the Retail Merchants association has been followed by other endorsements, including that of the Richland County Automobile club and the Chamber of Commerce.

The Citizens' Traffic committee, which has been active during the past several months in surveying local traffic conditions and studying reports from other cities in which parking meters are in use, has approved the installation of meters as among the essential steps in providing space for short-time parking, for the convenience of shoppers and motorists who have business or professional appointments.

Now, after a longer time has been given for consideration and the experience of more cities has become available, the newly created traffic committee of city council has presented an ordinance which provides for the installation of parking meters in zones to be established by the director of public safety.

While this is a matter in which general agreement is not anticipated, it is worthy of mention that reports from cities in which meters have been installed are to the effect that many persons who had been most outspoken in opposition to installing parking meters now express hearty approval.

The question a year ago was whether police enforcement of regulations against overtime parking in restricted areas might solve the downtown parking problem without adopting the meter plan. Experience has shown that this is not a satisfactory solution, which probably accounts for growth of sentiment in favor of trying the meter method of making it easier to find space for short-time parking. It appears that a majority of Mansfield motorists will welcome the experiment.

Enlightened Imperialism

TEN YEARS AGO a German scholar, now dead, published a book about England which contained some statements that ought to be read by Americans who regard the British Empire as a menace to the world. In "England, Its Character and Genius," Professor Wilhelm Dibelius wrote:

"England is the only country in the world that, in looking after its own interest with meticulous care, has at the same time something to give to others: the single country where patriotism does not represent a threat or challenge to the rest of the world: the single country that invariably summons the most progressive, idealistic, and efficient forces in other nations to co-operate with it."

That statement should be called to the attention of many who hate Great Britain and who fail to note that the British Empire, since 1890, has been increasing the independence of its various members rather than adding to its area or tightening its control.

New Zealand Dictatorship

WAR nowadays is a "totalitarian" business. Formerly a war occupied only a small part of a nation's activities. Now it tends to embrace them all. This is evident in the European countries already fighting or getting ready to fight, and the practice spreads quickly around the world.

So New Zealand, in the antipodes, is abandoning its social democracy and placing all the people, property and services in the country at the disposal of the governor-general.

There is this difference, however, between such procedure in New Zealand and in the totalitarian countries of Europe. When the war is over, New Zealand will revert to its representative government.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Every night at 9:43 and sometimes in the afternoon around 4:34 Walter Huston gives himself a shave. Many men shave once each day and sometimes twice a day, but where Actor Huston has it on the rest of mankind is that he must do this in addition to the private shaves he has at his hotel or in the confines of his own bathroom.

Shaving was part of the ritual laid down by Playwright William Saroyan when he wrote "Love's Old Sweet Song," and when Walter Huston read the script and got ready for Broadway he touched his chin gingerly and admitted that he always has suffered from sensitive skin.

Nevertheless, each night on the stage of a Broadway theater an intimate little scene is enacted during which Huston washes his face, then comes out of the bathroom and gives his face a generous lather. He is good in these scenes—always has been. He talks while working up the lather, using his brush awhile, then rubbing in the lather, and working it with brush again.

* * *

THOSE who recall the play "Dodsworth" several years ago will recall a scene in which Huston play again another of those curiously commonplace yet comic episodes which are a part of every man's daily life. It never failed to get applause. It was simply that Huston took off his pants. He would lower his suspenders, unbutton them, and let them tumble to the floor in a little heap about his feet. Then he would step out of them, and look at them as if wondering whether they were worth picking up: He always went off stage with the pants still lying just as they fell in the center of the stage. Often little things like this make certain plays memorable. When Huston, on opening night, came out rubbing that lather into his face, everyone who had seen him in "Dodsworth" knew that this would be a scene to remember.

* * *

THOSE who remember Yorkville as it was during the later twenties and again as it was a year or so ago will recognize the change that has again come over this ancient, deep-seated German settlement in Manhattan. During prohibition and up until the middle thirties Yorkville was a postcard version of the "Student Prince"—a neighborhood of pleasant beerhalls adorned wth stag antlers and sawdust floors, and where "O Tannenbaum" was nightly chorused by shouting villagers in leather britches and foaming tankards of beer.

But when the Bund rose and Fritz Kuhn grew into something of a Swastika figure in America, Yorkville became the hub of the uniformed German activities in the east. They paraded in their sambrown belts and their brown shirts. They held picnic "shoots," and they made speeches under gigantic portraits of Adolf Hitler.

But when Fritz Kuhn's secret love life was aired in the courts and he went to jail, the showy part of the Bund's activities subsided, and Yorkville became less prominently identified with the Swastika movement. Today the old German taverns are going in for Spanish dancing and forms of entertainment that are not of the Berlin variety. The Hitler sentiment still persists, but the younger bucks of the Bund no longer parade or swagger along the sidewalks, shouting "Heil, Hitler." The atmosphere is tense, and a little subdued. Yorkville is, always has been, and always will be German. Many of its citizens would be better pleased if they could return to the easy, sawdust floor frivolity of the days they knew before Hitler became Hitler.

Appendix Not Always Guilty.

—By DR. CLENDENING

MY FRIEND, Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., has discovered that there is no such thing as chronic appendicitis. Out here in Kansas we could have told Dr. Alvarez that 25 years ago. Dr. Arthur Hertzler, the "Horse and Buggy Doctor," has been preaching that doctrine for some time.

Dr. Alvarez reports on 385 cases of people who had their appendix out for what was called "chronic appendicitis." This does not mean at all patients who had their appendix out in the interval between bona fide attacks of acute appendicitis. They were operated on mostly because they had obscure digestive or abdominal complaint, or even such reflex things as headache, migraine, food sensitiveness. Many were operated on for appendicitis.

Only two of these patients could be said to have been cured. Twenty-four per cent of the patients were decidedly the worse for the operation.

Rare Disease.

"It would seem that true chronic appendicitis instead of being regarded as the commonest intra abdominal disease, should be thought of as one of the rarest."

I think the lesson from this is important, although it is not easy to state it without creating some misunderstanding in the layman's mind. Let it not be supposed, as I said above, that acute appendicitis does not recur. And it is true that when one has had an attack of acute appendicitis, this predisposes to others so that a more or less recurrent type of invalidism may result until the appendix is removed. In a series of such cases, Dr. Alvarez found cure in nearly 70 per cent of cases.

But the typical chronic appendicitis case is one in which there is really no reason to suppose that the appendix is involved at all except by making up a theory which would make chronic appendicitis responsible for nearly everything from constipation to cyclic vomiting.

"Bucket-Shop."

The vicious thing about the situation is that there are some surgeons who are willing to take advantage of the layman's belief that the appendix is a dangerous organ and should be removed on the slightest provocation. I said last summer that only bucket-shop surgeons took out appendices for chronic appendicitis so I am a little ahead of Dr. Alvarez on this.

It seems a curious thing that in large clinics, it is a good deal harder to persuade people not to have an operation than it is to persuade them to have an operation. A great many people like to have operations. It makes them seem important and this results in spending a great deal of money and time, and also creates a false psychology.

Listen, World!

Take That Step!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ALL THESE "Pep Talks," they're mighty exhilarating when you're rarin' to go.

But what are you to do when you haven't any pep?

Suppose illness or grief or shock, disgust or despair has wiped out your spark, left you limp, ambitionless? Or suppose life has struck one of those mysterious slumps which come to even the happiest and healthiest? As youngsters, we're not prepared for those slumps. We notice them, but we don't think they're necessary. They're caused, we're sure, by the laziness and cowardize of old age. Silly old Washouts! We're not going to be like that when we grow up! We're going to stay enthusiastic and alert forever and ever.

But we don't stay enthusiastic and alert forever. Sooner or later the high tide ebbs for us, as it has for our elders . . . leaves us staring out over the desolate flats on which nothing stirs or calls. Presently the tide will come back, salt and fierce. But we don't know that at the time. We think that everything has stopped for keeps. And we don't care! If life is to be like this, we don't want to go on.

Yet we must go on, life can't be tossed aside as easily as that. There are those who depend on us. And there is that inexorable voice inside ourselves which demands that we take the trail, whether we're eager or not. But how?

You'll find the answer in that gallant book, already quoted in this space, Antoine De Saint Exupery's "Wind, Sand and Stars." No finer writing or sounder philosophy was ever offered troubled America than appears in this young French aviator's account of his adventures as an air mail pilot, flying the mail from Toulouse, in southwestern France ,to Dekar in West Africa.

Repeatedly, the ecstasy of that wild flight wheeled into catastrophe, stripped the wings from his spirit as well as his plane. There was that nightmare time when Guillaumet, his friend, crashed in the frozen death trap of the Andes, struggled for days, blind, delirious—"trudging without ice-axe, without ropes, without provisions, crawling on the faces of vertical walls . . . hands, feet and knees bleeding in a temperature 20 degrees below zero."

What hope was there for a man in such a pass? Yet, without hope, he went on—was rescued. How? Not by strength, strategy or good luck . . . but by blindly obeying that voice within himself which would not admit defeat . . . BY SIMPLY GOING ON . . . A STEP AT A TIME.

Says Exupery: "What saves a man is to take a step. Then another step. It is always the same step, but you have to take it."

What can you do when you've lost your zest for doing anything . . . when faith and delight, ecstasy and ambition, all have failed, and you're paralyzed mentally, drained emotionally? YOU CAN GO ON MAKING THE MOTIONS . . . TAKING A STEP AT A TIME. ONE STEP AND THEN ANOTHER. They may be—almost certainly will be—monotonous, routine steps. Lining the pantry shelves with fresh paper. Cleaning out the office files. Planting a tree. Smiling automatically at a customer or a friend. Yet, if you have the fortitude to keep on taking them, they will lead you out of your cul de sac, back into the warm, quick current of life.

Don't struggle. Don't try to think . . . don't try to feel . . . don't try to reason.

JUST TAKE THAT STEP! IT WILL SAVE YOU!

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, June 6, 1920.

State automobile association asked action to prevent damage to roads by heavy trucks.

Memorial services were held at First Congregational church by Courtney camp, Modern Woodmen of America.

First Lutheran congregation voted to accept resignation of Rev. R. E. Tulloss, who was elected to presidency of Wittenberg college.

Miss Goldie Stackhouse, Weldon avenue, was taken to General hospital for operation.

Miss Marie Brunk returned home after graduation from training school for nurses at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, June 6, 1935.

Lieut. LeRoy Coffey, member of the city police department, was graduated from Ashland college with a degree of bachelor of arts.

Choosing her parents' wedding anniversary Miss Winifred Geiger became the bride of Paul Herlihy in a formal ceremony at the St. Peter's Catholic church.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whisler, South Diamond street.

Dr. Charles H. Lake, superintendent of Cleveland Public schools, delivered the commencement address here to 207 seniors.

Pre-nuptial party was given honoring Miss Evelyn Weaver, bride-elect of Robert E. Kochenderfer, when Misses Virginia Leight and Lenore Lewis entertained.

Richard Murphy was re-elected grand knight of the Mansfield council, No. 687 Knight of Columbus, at its annual meeting.

Timely Editorial

Top Place To Henry Ford.

The Fortune magazine poll giving Henry Ford top rating in a popularity contest among American workers must have been a jolt for labor's professional saviors.

William Green, AFL president, managed to place third in the poll, after Senator Wagner, author of the Labor Relations act. But John L. Lewis, of the CIO, ran eighth, trailing Mme. Perkins and Alfred P. Sloan, of General Motors. Lewis, according to the poll, was only two jumps ahead of Tom Girdler in the race for labor's affections.

The magazine interprets the results as indicating "that what labor wants most for its toil is a high wage rather than the recognition of economic and political principles." That seems a logical conclusion, for, as the magazine points out, "even members of the CIO, the most militant group (politically) in labor, gave anti-union Henry Ford a thumping vote of 51.5 per cent."

The poll's outcome does not surprise us, nor do we doubt its substantial accuracy. "American workers" are nobody else than the rank and file of American citizens, who have an abiding faith in the system of enterprise Henry Ford typifies.—Detroit News.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note—This is the fifth in the Washington Merry-Go-Round's series of articles on inefficiencies in our national defense.)

WASHINGTON—In passing judgment on the war department's failure to strengthen our national defense, it is important to remember that the war department is charged with many other duties besides maintenance of the army.

For instance, it operates a brewery in Panama, maintains 800 infantrymen in Tientsin, leases bistros in Colon, maintains a series of retail stores in Panama where you can buy anything from Fifth avenue suspenders to South African diamonds, takes care of the dredging of every river, creek and bay worth a name on the map.

In fact, for about twenty of the 22 years since the World war, the army has been just as busy with routine affairs and just as nonchalant about its own improvement and modernization as the rest of the American public.

And if the army is behind the times today—which it is—the fault must be borne not by any one president, but partly by a public which did not want a big army, and partly by the generals who did not concentrate the money they had on improving the two most powerful branches of military defense, aviation and mechanization.

* * *

Prima Donna Generals.

IN this latter respect, the generals were just as much asleep as the rest of the country. For during the seven years between 1933 and 1940, they spent only 1.5 per cent of their congressional appropriation on research and development. By and large, the horse cavalry and the foot-soldiers were good enough for them.

Although it is congress which has the final vote regarding army funds, it is the generals who submit estimates to congress, and seldom does congress change these materially. An item may be scaled down here, or boosted there; but for the most part the generals get what they ask for.

And the inside fact is that if the chief of cavalry sees the chief of infantry asking for more money, then he immediately wants more money, too, and the chief of field artillery says he needs more also, and the chief of coast artillery puts his hand out—and so on down the line. It is a merry scramble, who no rhyme or reason about the way the money is spent to modernize the army.

* * *

Hoover Agrees.

AS FAR as actual appropriations go, both Hoover and Roosevelt tried to curtail army costs, and the first four years under Roosevelt saw the army given $1,217,000,000, a little less than the $1,318,000,000 voted the army during the four years of Hoover. But as Roosevelt saw the European war clouds gathering, he jumped army appropriations sharply.

In 1936, the army budget was jumped $100,000,000 to $355,000,000. Then after gradual increases, it hit $460,000,000 in 1939, and after the Munich surrender, shot to $923,000,000 in 1940. This latter appropriation was voted before war broke last September.

One thing upon which Hoover and Roosevelt both agreed was the abolition of the "political" forts stationed in the interior United States during Indian days, and now virtually valueless. Yet neither president has been able to move them.

* * *

Wouldn't Move.

FOR INSTANCE, Fort D. A. Russell at Marfa, Texas, was ordered officially abolished by Hoover in May, 1931. The First Cavalry then stationed there was ordered to Fort Knox, Ky., where it was to be put into armored cars and made a permanent mechanized unit.

All this was officially announced by Hoover and the war department. However, they reckoned without Senator Sheppard of Texas. Senator Sheppard not only is author of the Prohibition amendment, but also was then ranking member of the senate military affairs committee.

Th senator said he didn't want the First Cavalry moved from Marfa, so the First Cavalry remained there. It remained despite the news that the armored cars were blistering their paint in the sun at Fort Knox waiting for them. It remained, horses and all, while mechanization promised to be a most important weapon of modern warfare.

* * *

Three Years Wasted.

IN FACT, the First Cavalry remained there until Mr. Hoover had left office; and until Mr. Roosevelt had been two years in office. Mr. Roosevelt also wanted to move the First Cavalry, but again Senator Sheppard didn't want him to. So finally, a compromise was reached whereby other troops were substituted for the First Cavalry.

Thus after three years of waiting, and while Hitler was making historic strides in mechanizing the German army, one regiment of U. S. cavalry finally became mechanized.

Hoover and Roosevelt also tried to abolish other political forts. For instance, Fort Logan, Utah, once an Indian blockhouse, is not strategically located now. Furthermore, it costs the army money to send supplies and men there. But Fort Logan always has been the political pet of Senator Smoot. So it has remained.

There are score of others—Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., where there is so much snow that the field artillery and cavalry regiments stationed there get little time to practice; and Fort Meade, South Dakota, to which the costs of transporation are tremendous.

An army cannot adequately train men when they are isolated in out of the way parts of the country. Modern warfare calls for mass movements of troops. But each fort has its own senatorial protector, and political considerations have come first. Roosevelt has failed to make any more of a dent on this problem than Hoover.

* * *

Army Nazi Clique.

THE ARMY hated Hoover. They hated him because he was a pacifist and because he was constantly hacking their appropriations. But it is probable that they dislike Roosevelt as much or more. In fact, there are reports of a certain amount of Nazism in the U.S. army.

Probably these reports are exaggerated. Nevertheless, it is a fact that army officers are so poorly paid, that those who get the higher jobs must have a wealthy wife or a private income. And naturally a dwindling of private revenue from stocks and bonds under New Deal regulations hasn't improved their love of Roosevelt.

Also the average army officer has an intense admiration for the German military machine. Undoubtedly most this admiration is only a cold-blooded analysis of the manner in which Hitler has synchronized material and men on land, sea and in air, and does not include any acceptance of political ideas behind the German military machine.

However, there are reported to be some groups inside the U.S. army which let their anti-New Dealism carry them over to the Nazis. Perhaps also it is worth recalling that the man whom the Dies committee branded as the leader of a fascist revolution in the United States, General George Van Horn Moseley, once was deputy chief of staff, second highest rank in the U. S. army.

Weasel In Action

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

DOWN in our wheat field are strips of land where cornstalks stood, that were not seeded. There bundles of fodder still are piled across each other. As I walked along the southern line this morning, a large rat ran from the pile of fodder toward the fense.

He ran only half the distance in his normal way, then stopped as though injured, crawled upon his belly and yelled piteously. I was about 30 feet westward along the fence. I sense his trouble, and when I looked carefully between the roots of an old stump I saw a small dark brown head with a long neck poised on short front legs. It moved back and forth like a serpent's, and dark beady eyes showed green, as if with anger.

The moving rat must have seen the evil looking shadow before I did, and cowered to meet his fate. Hardly had I seen the moving head when the weasel sprang, a yard at a single leap, and in a second was upon the back of his trembling victim's neck. He clinched his jaws into the throat and sat, in the same position, almost still, for what seemed to me several moments. I walked closer, but he did not move, until I came within five feet. Then he released his hold and snarled with a fierce curl of his lip, so that I stepped back, instinctively. He resumed his hold again, and I knew he was exacting the last drop of blood from his kill. I do not believe a fiend from hell could wear a more satanic countenance.

I stood my ground until the weasel was satisfied and leisurely ambled to the grassy field. From curiosity I went to the old stump where I had seen him first. Three feet away I saw the skin of a chipmunk. I found the body eaten all but the tail and legs and a part of the soft furry pelt. The head remained, but the skull was crushed.

I followed the tracks to where the rat lay. I found he had made more than a yard at a single bound, and the hind legs must have made the same imprint as the front ones, for only two imprints were visible.

A weasel is the cruelest, most bloodthirsty of animals. He is a killer—that is his way of life. He grows strong upon the blood of his victims. I have known a weasel to kill fifty half-grown chickens in a single night.

Only one will inhabit a section of land. If another weasel invades his territory they fight and the winner drives the other out or kills him. Males and females fight and kill each other. Only owls, hawks and foxes, besides their own kind are their mortal enemies.

U. S. FACES JOB OF PRODUCING 50,000 PLANES

Germans Can Plan and Build Craft in Seven Months; Ten Required Here.

(By Associated Press)

BALTIMORE.—An American aircraft manufacturer, visiting the German air ministry's imposing edifice in Berlin last year, asked an official, "What happened to that big, four-engine plane you had in the blueprint stage a few months ago?"

"Oh, that," responded the German. "We built it and discarded it. It wasn't quite what we wanted for production purposes."

In a brief seven months, under totalitarian methods, the Germans had drawn the plans for, built and junked a mammoth winged war machine. That provides another piece of evidence on the smooth efficiency with which Germany has worked in shaping to the needs of war a highly specialized industry.

The same problems in quick expansion, engineering and production now face the United States in meeting the demands of the armed services for fresh thousands of warplanes. Turning out 50,000 machines, and boosting American productivity to that figure annually, is a precision job on a mass-production framework.

Up to now the best American plants have done is plan and manufacture an airplane in 10 months. That was the time required for a twin-engine flying boat of sensational performance. As a private project of the Consolidated Aircraft Corp., of San Diego, it suffered from none of the delays caused by the demands of buyers for changes.

Ordinarily 20 months elapse here between the time a design is drawn and the first plane of a series, or "prototype," rolls out of the factory for flight testing.

As American factories acquire more floor space and install more machinery to which engineers can look for fast fabrication of parts, that time will be reduced.

Last year the American aircraft industry produced only 5,500 planes of all types, including 3,000 so-called "light-planes" for the private pilot. Warplanes totalled less than 2,000. To achieve a production of 50,000 planes a year, it is estimated that about 300,000 persons must be on the payrolls of the aircraft, aircraft engine and such intimately related industries as those producing aluminum sheets tubing and instruments.

That compares with a little less than 600,000 persons employed in making automobiles, trucks and parts and refining and marketing petroleum products.

The aircraft industry's investment of $750,000,000 probably will be doubled.

Ohio National Guard Needs Mechanized Equipment

TWO TANKS IN WAR SETUP OF STATE TROOPS

Gen. Light Declares Force Can Be Put in Fighting Trim In Three Months.

By LARRY NEWMAN
(INS Staff Correspondent)

COLUMBUS—The Ohio national guard, 11,500 strong, can be whipped into a fighting unit within three months, if an emergency arises, Adjutant General Gilson D Light declared today.

As the 79 national guard units in Ohio prepared for the second army maneuvers to be staged in Wisconsin, Aug 11 to 31, General Light stated that for the first time since the World war tentage and canvas equipment are available for the entire guard and every soldier has four complete uniforms, two for summer and two for winter

"The clothing equipment is 100 per cent," he said

However, statistics available at the adjutant general's office indicate that the guard is lacking in the principal fighting equipment of modern warfare—tanks and anti-tank guns.

But two tanks are on hand and there are no modern anti-tank guns in the state military supplies. Against a modern mechanized army, infantrymen would be helpless without the high-calibre anti-tank equipment and trench mortars which have proved so valuable in the present European encounter.

General Light, however, is confident that the new 81 millimeter mortars and 37 millimeter anti-tank guns will be available to all national guard units by Sept 1 under the recent defense program inaugurated by President Roosevelt.

Also missing from the guard's fighting equipment are the latest type repeating rifles adopted by the U. S. army. These guns are expected to be added to the O.N.G. supply dumps before winter sets in.

Six thousand infantrymen are equipped with 30 calibre rifles and 987 forty-five calibre rifles and 237 thirty calibre automatic rifles are on hand for immediate use in the numerous arsenals and armories

Other close fighting equipment includes 5401 forty-five calibre automatic pistols

For heavy fighting in attacks on forts, enemy positions and fortifications, the guard has forty nine 75 millimeter guns for "straight-line" shelling and 24 howitzers of 155 millimeter calibre for "looping" shells inside forts and trenches.

The guard has but ten observation planes available Combat planes are entirely missing although the regular army furnishes them for maneuvers

Since President Roosevelt declared a partial emergency last Sept. 1, the enlistment of the national guard increased 1,611 men The guard is divided into two infantry brigades, the 73rd and 74th, composed of 3000 men each, the 62nd field artillery, of 2000 men and the 112 quartermasters regiment, 350 officers

Other units are the 112th engineers, 300; 112th medics, 300; and special troops numbering 300 which include military police, signal corps and the ordnance company.

Besides the regularly enrolled 11 500 guardsmen and officers, Ohio has 1000 naval militiamen, a battalion of marines and one training ship located in Toledo the U. S. Wilmington

To move the army 116 trucks of various sizes are available along with 62 trailers and 65 motorcycles.

Group Asks Aid Of Retailers In Flag Week Plans

Constitution Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, which held its annual meeting last night at the Jacob Barber grove in Butler, will sponsor the Mansfield observance of national flag week, June 8 to 14 inclusive

The chapter has asked the retail merchants of the city to cooperate with them by displaying the American flag on the streets every day of the week, starting Saturday

At 7:30 p m. Sunday there will be a flag service and sermon at First Lutheran church with Rev. Grover Swoyer officiating. The service is open to the public and all patriotic organizations are especially urged to attend.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected last night by the chapter John C Shook was named president, Guy E Shawk, vice president, Clark M. Garber, Butler, secretary - registrar; and George A Lehr, treasurer

GUN BATTLE

Youth Killed in Fight With Seven Policemen.

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)—Edward Pedro, 21, of Struthers, was fatally shot in a gun battle with seven policemen when he was cornered in the downtown Bus arcade early today

With bullet wounds in the right arm hip, stomach and leg, the youth died two hours later

Patrolman Myron Burnside encountered Pedro in an alley while patrolling his beat. Pedro covered the policeman with a gun, commanding:

"Stick up your hands or I'll kill you"

Instead the policeman leaped backward, around a corner, retorting:

"Try it if you can"

Pedro and the policeman fired three shots each, then Burnside called for reinforcements

Police believe the man committed several burglaries here, and Struthers police said he recently served a sentence for burglary.

Cleveland Man Then Kills Relative and Self.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — After writing 16 suicide notes—one of them to President Roosevelt—Edward Geggus 59, shot his brother-in-law to death and committed suicide a short distance from the home of his estranged wife, Grace

The brother-in-law, Harry Tinker, 59, of Denver, apparently met Geggus by accident on the street, police said today. After talking for a short time Tinker turned to leave and Geggus fired three shots at him, then shot himself.

Members of Geggus' family told police that he had hated Tinker, who came to Cleveland yesterday with his wife.

The note to the president said: "I am for F.D.R, but Frankie, don't let them play golf too long in the United States of America or bye-bye America. Prepare!"

SERVED COUNTY

Jacob Laubscher, Ex-Courthouse Custodian, Dies at 78.

Five years after his retirement from more than a decade as custodian at the Richland county courthouse, Jacob Laubscher, 78, died at noon today at the home of his daughter, Mrs John Hoeffler on Park avenue west road. His death followed a brief illness.

Previous to his 11 years' service at the courthouse, which made him a familiar figure to many Mansfielders and residents of the county, Laubscher had been employed at the Altman-Taylor company.

He is survived by one son, Carl, and two daughters, Mrs Henry J Hoffman, and Mrs Hoeffler.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where funeral services will be held Saturday at 1 30 p m Interment will be in Mansfield cemetery

City's 6,300 Pupils Put Away Books for Summer

Mansfield's 6 300 public school children today put away their text books until next fall as the annual three-month summer vacation began, bringing to a close the 1939-40 school year.

Regular classes were ended Tuesday afternoon, and all that remained for the students to do today was to report to school at 1 p. m. and receive their final grade cards. Schools were dismissed at the discretion of the principals. Schools will open for the 1940-41 year on Sept. 4.

The 860 children in St Peter's elementary and high schools will be dismissed for their summer vacation at noon tomorrow, officials said today.

Pupils will return to school tomorrow morning to receive their final grade cards, and the closing activities will be services in St. Peter's Catholic church during which Msgr. R C Goebel will be the speaker.

$0,000 ATTEND PEONY DISPLAY

Weather Keeps Van Wert Crowd Under Previous Record.

VAN WERT — (UP) — Queen Jubilee IX resumed her normal life as Miss Jeanne Lewis today and Van Wert packed away its holiday decorations after 80,000 persons attended the annual Peony festival yesterday

Late budding of the peonies and a forecast of rainy weather reduced the crowd below the 100,000 figures of the two previous years.

The weather turned out perfect for the celebration which reached its climax when Col Robert S Beightler, state highway director, crowned Miss Lewis as queen.

UNKNOWN EDDIE KIRK AND SAM SNEAD LEADING NATIONAL OPEN

BULLETIN

CANTERBURY GOLF CLUB, CLEVELAND—(AP)—Sam Snead blistered this golf course with a sub-par score of 67 today to take the leadership in the first round of the National Open championship. Slammin' Samuel looked a champion in every stroke as he went out over the sun-baked course in 33 and came back in 34 to slice five strokes off par.

By LAWTON CARVER
(INS Sports Editor)

CANTERBURY GOLF CLUB, WARRENSVILLE—Playing under a scorching sun, Eddie Kirk, unknown professional from Farmington, Mich, today moved to the head of the parade as the early pace-setter as 169 of America's greatest professional and amateur golf stars began the long, three-day march toward the National Open golf championship.

Kirk gave the rest something to shoot at by playing the first nine in 33, or three under par 36. He birdied the first, fifth, sixth and seventh holes, took a four, one over par, on the third, and played the remainder in even figures to take a two-stroke lead over Paul Runyan, the former professional champion from White Plains, N. Y., and Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill. They carded 35's.

Ben Hogan, long driving Texas professional who concurrently is at White Plains, N. Y. club, and co-favorite with Slammin' Sam Snead to dethrone Byron Nelson for the title, took a five, one over par, on the short but tough second hole and with that played to the turn in 37, one over par. He had par for every hole except the second

Snead moved into a tie with Kirk for the first nine lead when he matched the Michigan pro's outward 33 with a dazzling burst of golf.

Laying into his woods with customary fierce abandon and playing every shot with near-perfect precision, Snead bagged himself birdies on the second, fifth and eighth and played the rest in par, putting all the while for birdies that he barely missed time after time.

John Montague, the erstwhile California mystery man, found considerable trouble one way and another, and wound up with a 39 at the turn, then started home with even pars on the first four holes

Among the early leaders as they rounded the first nine were Terl Johnson, Norristown, Pa., and Al Huske, of De Kalb, Ill., who carded 35's, and Leland Gibson, of Kansas, with a par 36.

'Y' EXTENDED TO COUNTY AREA

Directors Approve Plan That Will Admit Youths From Outside Mansfield.

Extension of the Mansfield Y. M. C. A. program to include Richland county, was approved by the "Y" board of directors at a dinner meeting at the Evergreens cafeteria Wednesday evening.

Inclusion of other Richland county towns in "Y" activities will begin with the summer program, according to Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary, and will include both the Day Camp and summer camp programs.

In the future any boy in the county will be allowed to take part in activities at the "Y"; but activities in other towns will only be conducted on request, Chapman said. The work will be in charge of the physical education and boys' work committees.

The board also elected Vernon Smeltzer as delegate to the young men's council of the Ohio area Y. M. C. A. council. Smeltzer gave a report of the recent young men's council meeting held in Warren.

SCHOOLS READY TO ASSIST IN DEFENSE PLANS

Offer Vocational Departments For Training of Airplane Technicians.

Mansfield schools are prepared to train up to 200 pupils this summer in vocational trades for making airplanes as a part of the federal government's preparedness program, Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said today.

Miller and other Ohio school heads offered their vocational department facilities, on the condition, however, that the federal government pays the full cost of operation of the departments on a summer schedule.

Miller said E N Dietrich, state director of education, approved the plan and had written to Dr. J. W Studebaker, U. S. director of education, telling him Ohio school officials are ready to cooperate fully with the federal government in training pupils to make planes and other defense weapons.

"We could conduct afternoon and evening classes in six trades, beginning immediately, if the federal government agrees to finance the work," Miller said.

He explained that training could be offered for machinists, auto mechanics, sheet metal workers, welders, cabinet makers, and electricians

Dr. John S. Hattery, vice president of the Mansfield board of education, proposed about three weeks ago that the Mansfield schools offer their facilities in training workers for the national defense program. Miller immediately sought approval of the state education director.

COURT RECEIPTS UP 13 PER CENT

Revenues Received During May $2,278 as Compared To $1,990 for April.

Municipal court receipts during May showed an increase of 13 per cent over the preceding month, the monthly report of collections prepared by Miss Isabel Gertsmeyer, deputy, showed today.

Total revenues, including receipts from criminal and civil branches were $2,278 as against $1,990 in April.

Major portion of the increase was in the criminal division where a nearly $200 hike was shown because of an increase in state highway patrol cases. There was a noticeable increase in the civil branch.

Of the total receipts, the city's general fund will be increased $1,745 from fines and costs collected in criminal cases and $369 collected as costs in civil actions.

The city's share was derived from $327 collected as fines and costs in city cases; $365 in traffic forfeitures; $332 as the city's share of state highway patrol cases; $91 as forfeitures in state cases and $268 in costs from state cases.

Distributed to the state will be $148 collected as fines in state cases, $52 collected as fines in liquor cases and $332 as half of the fines collected in state patrol cases.

MAXINE COFFMAN TO MARRY JUNE 22

Betrothal, Wedding Date Disclosed Last Night at Dessert Party Given By Mother, Sister.

AS THE WARM DAYS of June follow each other in rapid sequence, news of coming marriages becomes daily headlines in the society department. One of the cleverest parties of the season was given last night by Mrs. G. E. Coffman and her daughter, Frances Ann, for another daughter, Mary Maxine, at the family home, 162 Lind avenue.

Guests were seated at five small tables each of which was decorated and set in a different pastel shade. A dessert course was served at 8 o'clock. Each table was centered with a small square glass placque on which spray variety holders containing pastel flowers were placed.

The guests places were marked by tiny pastel crepe paper bags bearing their names. When these were opened a small paper bell was disclosed, on the cover of which was a cat made from a pussy willow. On the second page were the words "the cat's out of the bag" while on the last page the names of the betrothed couple and the wedding date were given.

Bridge was played during the evening, and prizes won by Mrs. Charles McMullen, Miss Doris Goodenough, Miss Loretta Minich and Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller. The bride's mother presented her with a gift of pottery.

Miss Coffman will become the bride of Bernard M. Mahoney, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mahoney, 437 Louise avenue, at 2:30 p. m. June 22 in an open ceremony at the First Methodist church.

For attendants the bride-elect selected her sister, and her cousin, Sandra Lou Coffman, who will serve as flower girl. James Mahoney, brother of the prospective bridegroom, will serve as best man. The ushers will be Robert Charles, Robert Finical, Clare Bell, Charles McMullen, Willard Coffman, uncle of the bride-elect, and Shelby Adkins, Cleveland.

Miss Coffman is a graduate of Mansfield high school, and attended Mansfield Business Training school. She is now employed at Tracy and Avery, wholesale grocers. Mr. Mahoney also attended Mansfield high school, and is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

ANNUAL PICNIC.

The annual picnic of the Bushnell school was held yesterday at North Lake park with the Parent-Teacher association in charge. Games and contests were the diversion with prizes going to Mr. and Mrs. Viron Broach, Mrs. Bernard Hout, Marion Gerrell, Marjorie Ferguson, Thelma Smith, Richard Broach and Robert Hale. A basket dinner was served at 6 p. m. and sound movies were shown later.

ENTERTAIN GUEST.

Mrs. Hazel Halifax was a guest present Wednesday evening when 26 members of the Liberty Park association held their regular session at the club house. The business sessioon was in charge of Mrs Gordon Watson. Plan were made to hold a bake sale at the W. T. Grant store, June 22. The group decided to meet for a social session in the afternoon on June 26 in charge of Mrs. Delmer Scott.

Senior Recital Given at Church By Miss Baughman

Miss Janet Baughman, piano student of Marie Marks Porterfield, gave her senior recital last night at the St. Luke's Lutheran church before a group of friends and relatives. She was assisted by Miss Mildred Hart, violin student of Daisie M. Gibson, and Emerson Bletz, voice student of Miss Florence MacDonald.

Opening the program Miss Baughman played "Fantasia, C Minor" by Bach, and the allegro, adagio, menuetto and prestissimo movements of "Sonata, F Minor" by Beethoven. Mr. Bletz followed with "Tally-Ho" by Leoni, "Der Traumende See" by Griffes and "Tell Me, Oh Blue, Blue Sky," by Giannini.

Continuing Miss Baughman played three selections by Chopin. They were "Nocturne, E Flat Major," "Prelude, B Minor" and "Waltz, C Sharp Minor."

For her part of the program Miss Hart played the first movement of "Concerto, G Minor" by Vivaldi-Nachez, "Salut d'Amour" by Elgar and "Frasquita" by Lehar-Kreisler.

Concluding her program Miss Baughman played "May Nigh" by Palmgren, "Butterfly" by Grieg and "Impromptu" by Rheinhold.

Teachers Honor Associate With Luncheon Party

A covered-dish luncheon was served at Bowman street school yesterday noon honoring Miss Frances Conn who will become the bride of Austin Cochran on June 14. Teachers of the school, Principal G. W. Harmony, and Miss Lucille Lindsay, Miss Helen Hartman, Miss Florence Robison and Miss Therese Hallabrin were among the guests.

The table was centered with a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses, dutschia and spirea. Candles and pink and white crepe paper decorations completed the setting. There were 29 present. The bride-elect was presented with a sterling silver gift by the group.

Raymond Dent was general chairman in charge of arrangements. He was assisted by the Misses Ethel Mayer, Harriett Bookwalter, Margaret Kuppinger, Olive Scott, Nellie Tingley, Florence White, Lucille Lindsay, Eureta Bumpus and Virginia Wagner.

Pre-Nuptial Affair Honors Ruth High; Plan Other Events

BRIDGE and hearts were played by 24 last night when the Misses Vera Kelly, Florence Case and Ada Steward entertained in honor of Miss Ruth High, bride-elect of C. K. Dye, at the Susie Janis home. Prizes, which were later presented to the honoree, were awarded to Miss Marjorie High, Miss Naomi Maguire, Mrs. Mae Reed and Miss Lucille Baker.

A dessert-luncheon was served at a T-shaped table centered with orchid and purple iris and green candles. Each place was marked with an individual flower pot of orchids which later revealed fortunes for each guest.

Miss High was given a note while at the table which directed her to a gift of crystal arranged on a table in the sun room. The complete setting was placed on a table decorated with purple and orchid columbine and greenery. The hostesses presented her with a matching epergne.

Two more parties planned for the bride-to-be will be held June 17 and June 20. The first is a dinner at the home of Mrs. Harvey Sawhill, 374 Ruth avenue, with Mrs. M. R. Guiher as associate. The Misses Grace Ladd, Mary Elizabeth Gruber and Emma Witchey will entertain with a dessert-bridge party at the Women's Club on the later date.

Kitchen Shower First Affair for Mary E. Jurgens

The first in a series of pre-nuptial showers honoring Miss Mary Jurgens, bride-elect of Charles F. Eaton, was given last night by the Misses Elverta Hans, Miss Hortense Perl and Mrs. Charles Whisler at the latter's home on South Diamond street. Bridge was played, and prizes won by the honoree, Miss Isabel Gerstmeyer, Mrs. Paul Herlihy, and Mrs. Clement Wehinger.

A shower of miscellaneous kitchen gifts was presented in a large clothes basket brought into the bride-elect by Miss Perl who was dressed in a costume representing Aunt Jemima.

The twelve guests were seated at three tables decorated with cut flowers. The hostesses presented the honoree with an electric clock. Tonight the Misses Gerstmeyer and Alverda Hartnett, Mrs. Peter Lump and Mrs. Wilbur Fiegenbaum are entertaining.

PLAN SALE.

Miss Eileen Henney, South Foster street, was hostess Wednesday evening for the regular meeting of the Otterbein Guild of the United Brethren church. The president, Peggy Holmes, conducted the business session at which time the group planned to hold a bake sale at the Third street market June 15. Luncheon was served at a late hour. Miss Grace Kopical was a guest present. The date and place of the next meeting will be announced later.

Memorial Service Held Last Night By Auxiliary 100

An impressive memorial service was conducted for 26 deceased members and two veterans of the Civil war last night when members of Auxiliary No. 100, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War met in the Memorial building. Commander George H. Fisher and Comrade W. R. Tingley were the two deceased members honored.

During the service, which was conducted by Mrs. A. J. McHugh, acting chaplain, a flower was placed in a large basket as each name was called and later the floral arrangement was sent to W. B. Hammett, last surviving veteran.

Mrs. Hazel Brannon, president, sang "Memories," accompanied by Mrs. Nettie Kornoely during the service. During the short business meeting the June 19 meeting was cancelled because of the convention which will be held in Columbus and plans were made for the July 3 social. Mrs. Treva Campbell will be in charge.

Mrs. Bertha Pfiefer, a member from Toledo, was a guest.

Garden Party Given By Mrs. Vearl Dietzer

There were 14 present at the garden party given by Mrs. Vearl Dietzer, 294 West Sixth street, for members of the St. Agnes guild of the Grace Episcopal church last night. There were 55 varieties and shades of iris in bloom for the affair.

Members went to the house for a routine business meeting and luncheon. The long table was decorated with garden flowers and green and white appointments. Plans were made to have a picnic at North Lake park June 12 at 6:30 p. m.

PLAN REUNION.

The annual reunion of the Milligan families will be held Sunday, June 9 at the North Lake park pavilion, upstairs, according to announcement being made by the committee. A picnic dinner will be served at 12:30 p. m.

EXCHANGE VOWS IN CEREMONY TODAY

Miss Lucille Beck, Jacob Glide Married Quietly This Morning Before Altar of First Lutheran Church.

ONE of Mansfield's few mid-week marriages was solemnized in a simple ceremony this morning at 10:30 o'clock before the altar of the First Lutheran church. Dr. Grover E. Swoyer officiated for the service which united in marriage Miss Lucille Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Beck, 114 West Fifth street, and Jacob P. Glide, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Glide, 34 Prescott street.

For her marriage Miss Beck chose an aqua blue chiffon frock trimmed with rose velvet ribbon. Her shoes were in matching shade of rose, and she wore a shoulder length veil of the same color with the costume. Her flowers were sweet peas made into a shoulder corsage.

She was attended by her cousin, Mrs. DeWitt Powers.

The bride, who was employed at the Ohio Brass company, was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school. Mr. Glide was graduated from Madison high school, and is employed at the Northside grocery.

After a brief motor trip, the couple will be at home at the West Fifth street address temporarily.

HOW TO TELL if you are CONSTIPATED And What To Do!

How often should your bowels move? That varies in different people. But Insurance Companies who want to protect your health—who want to keep you from constipation with its headaches, indigestion, bad breath, mental and physical fatigue say "1 to 3 times daily."

And here's sensational news about an IDEAL "daily" treatment for constipation. Tests at a World-Famous Hospital have proved that a little daily dose of Kruschen—(world-famous formula now in pleasant tasting, "bubbling" form)—actually helps Nature produce her own gentle "daily" complete bowel movements by keeping the waste in the colon moist, soft and easy to expel. Scientists report: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase dosage."

Kruschen gives you more for your money, too! A jar that costs only a trifle lasts for weeks. Made in U.S.A.

Miss McLaughlin Tells Date Of Marriage to Gary Balliett

THE wedding date of Miss Vivian McLaughlin and Gary Balliett was disclosed last night at a party given by Miss McLaughlin's mother, Mrs. Theodore McLaughlin, at the family home in Coolridge Heights. The couple will wed June 27 at the First Lutheran church with Dr. Grover E. Swoyer officiating at the open church ceremony.

Pinochle and hearts were played by the guests, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Artis McLaughlin, Miss Mildred Ohler and Mrs. Frank Jurgens.

The 20 guests were seated at a long table decorated in a pink and white color scheme. Each place was marked by a miniature basket of pastel shaded sweet peas, and a nut cup bearing an arrow and heart on which the names of the couples and the date of the marriage were written.

A flat arrangement of snapdragons and spirea centered the table which was flanked with two miniature brides, and bridal bouquets scattered about. A three-branch candelabra bearing pink and white candles completed the setting.

The bride-elect was presented with a bride's book by her mother.

Miss McLaughlin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McLaughlin, Coolridge Heights. Mr Balliett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Balliett, Lucas road. Both are graduates of Madison township school, and are employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, June 7.

Splendid opportunity for achievement and definite progress in the direction of high goals is shown by this day's stellar chart. Much should be gained by industry, shrewdness, acumen and resourcefulness, perhaps in those affairs concentrated about writings, publicity, publishing, promotion and the commercial angles of literary versatility. Seek the endorsement and preferment of those in prestige and social position, whose friendly interest should be a factor in promoting cherished aims and desires, personal as well as business.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of definite success if they will apply themselves with intelligence, sound ambitions and aspirations. Under high stimuli are the intellectual forces and faculties as well as the social graces, where friendly interest of those in standing are instruments of expansion and fruition of a gratifying order, both business and private. It is most propitious for reaching for advanced goals in the realm of heart's desire.

Garden Graph

REPAIRING DAMAGE CAUSED BY CARPENTER BEE

The carpenter bee is a skilled worker, but he is destructive rather than constructive in the eyes of the gardener. The carpenter bee is a small winged insect, scientifically known as "Cerapina Dulpa." With the skill of a well-trained artisan the carpenter bee bores an entrance down into the soft pith in the stubs of rose canes. Some times this busy pest only bores into the cane for a few inches, but it may bore all the way down to the roots. The bee lays its eggs in compartments in the drilled out tunnel inside the cane, with a tiny floor built over each egg-holding section.

As a result of the drilling done by the carpenter bee, the rose cane dies due to the destruction of the soft pith. The damage done to a rose can by the carpenter bee is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. To repair this damage one must cut off the dead brown cane back to the living green area, as illustrated. Destroy the dead section of cane immediately by burning, for the eggs are in these sections.

When rose bushes are pruned, apply a drop of pruning compound to the cut end of each cane to keep out the carpenter bee.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

At my knock on Mary's door, her voice sounded, "Come in," so faintly that I could scarcely hear her. And when I pushed open the door, before Noel could touch it, and came into the room with him in my wake, she did not even raise her head. She was stretched prone upon the bed, her face buried in the pillow, evidently at the limit of her endurance.

With a stifled little exclamation, Noel rushed past me, dropped to his knees beside the bed, and put his arms around her, murmuring, "Mary! Mary!" With an answering cry of "Noel!" she turned in his arms and nestled close to him as if she were a storm-swept creature finally reaching shelter.

"Oh! where were you, Noel?" she quavered. "I've wanted you so."

Noel looked over at me, and I nodded.

"Tell her where you were," I said. "I think it's the tonic she needs."

"Sweetheart! Listen!" he said arrestingly, as he kissed her. "I've been in Aunt Madge's little study off the library, and I heard everything. Oh! you were marvelous! What a triumph, Darling! I was so proud of you."

The tonic was working. She raised her head, then struggled upward to a sitting position.

"You heard? And liked it?"

"Liked it!" Her young husband's tone was eloquent.

"I'm so glad," she sighed, then after a second her curiosity asserted itself.

"But how did you get in there? Your father was hunting all over for you."

"I'm the guilty party, Mary," I told her, smiling. "I hid him there, threatening him with all sorts of dire penalties if he betrayed his presence."

"It's a good thing I didn't know it," Mary commented. "I couldn't have uttered a word. But, tell me, Noel. You heard your father change his instructions. What do you—"

"I haven't the slightest idea," Noel replied. "I'm sure of only one thing. "You'll have the role. I've seen him in action often enough to know that."

"Oh-h!" she breathed happily, and I spoke with quick decision.

"I must hurry away now," I said. "The luncheon bell will be sounding any minute now, and I want you both to come down. But — one word of caution — don't either of you, betray by word or look that Noel was in the study!"

"It would be hanging at the yard arm, wouldn't it, Auntie Madge?" Mary queried, and I saw, thankfully, that her volatile temperament was coming to the aid of her nerves. "Don't worry! Noel and I will be mum as two little mices."

"See that you are," I retorted, and went out of the room, and down the stairs to the library again, where I found Lillian alone, and making a pretense of reading.

She put down the book as I entered, and looked up, her eyes frankly anxious.

"You found Noel?" she asked, her voice muted.

I nodded and answered her unspoken question.

"He's all right now," I said. "He saw what Redfield was doing, but I was able to make him see reason. He's with Mary now, and they'll be calm and controlled at luncheon and give no hint of where Noel was."

"Miracle worker at it again!" she gibed affectionately, but I stopped her with a question.

"Where's the great panjandrum?" I asked irreverently.

"Where would he be?" she countered. "He's gone up to Olga's suite to pay her his respects, and escort her and Olina down to luncheon. I shouldn't be surprised if he includes her in the after luncheon library conference."

"I shan't make any objections," I told her, and she shot a keen look at me.

"You're about all in," she said. "Sit down. I'll do the rest of the errands."

"There aren't any to do," I told her, sinking down in the nearest chair. "I saw Dicky and Harry. They were most enthusiastic about Mary, and will be down to luncheon promptly."

"I'll bet they will," she laughed. "That's their best stunt. Now then, do you loaf and 'invite your soul' until the luncheon bell rings."

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE OUTWITS TWO

Having an inexperienced partner is not necessarily always a handicap. If the hands that come along give the stronger member of the pair a chance to take the initiative, there may even be occasions on which he makes out better than if he had a thoroughly expert performer opposite him. Most of the time he will do best by taking the same action as with a strong associate, but in certain spots he will change his tactics in order to outwit skillful adversaries

(Dealer. South Neither side vulnerable.)

West here took the bit in his teeth with most unorthodox action when he leaped to 4-Hearts. He showed commendable restraint in not doubling the 5-Clubs, for fear that his partner might take out into diamonds or the opponents might bid that suit and find a good fit. The way he acted, his partner, a most conservative and almost timid player who had not been at the game very long, did nothing but pass

As it developed, West got the best score of all in the duplicate in which this hand arose, as South was set three tricks, with three lost in trumps and two in spades.

At every other table, with normal bidding from West, North and South got into a diamond contract and made a grand slam by means of a cross-ruff that set up clubs on which North's three spades were parked, since spades were not led.

West confided after the hand that his only reason for making his lusty heart jump was to cut off communication between his skillfully-drilled opponents and remove from them the original advantage with which they came to his table.

French Defense Traps Nazi Tank Advance

London Admits Nazi Progress; Paris Denies Any Serious Break; Hitler Sets Paris Goal In 15 Days.

Aisne-Somme front, and military sources declared:

"The Germans are tapping everywhere to find a soft spot—and when they find it they will try and push through."

Authorized German sources said the Weygand line "proved on the very first day that it cannot hold out"—but for the moment, at least, there were no reports of smashing Nazi advances of 20 or 30 miles such as characterized the German conquest of Flanders.

In their desperate fight to save the French capital, Weygand's blue-clad poilus were reported holding strongly and French military leaders described the situation as "fairly good."

Heavy German artillery pounded the French lines in the Soissons-Laon sector—base for the shortest direct onslaught toward Paris, about 60 miles distant—and sent over quantities of smoke shells.

British R. A. F. bombers attacked German lines of communications behind the Somme front, the air ministry announced, and destroyed six Nazi planes. The ministry reported direct hits on several oil tanks at German-occupied Ghent in Belgium.

A British radio report said the German air force raided the French city of Rouen, 25 miles inland on the Seine river from Le Havre. The raid caused little damage, the report said, and the Germans lost six planes.

Paris reported seven Nazi planes were shot down over Normandy, with three others believed shot down in central France.

One of the German-claimed "breaks" was along the Ailette river, where the Weygand line is only 65 miles from Paris. Here the French reported heavy German artillery action, as well as east of the Oise river.

In the Mediterranean, French-Italian relations continued tense as the Italian consul advised Italian subjects to leave Jibuti, French Somaliland, immediately.

Meanwhile Britain's "parashots" stood on guard against possible attempted Nazi parachute troop landings in the wake of the heaviest German bombing attack yet to hit England.

The Nazi bombers dropped high explosive and incendiary missiles along a 270-mile stretch of east coast from Yorkshire to Kent.

Premier Paul Reynaud made himself virtually supreme director of France's destiny in a drastic cabinet revision and Italy—for months on the verge of war as Germany's ally—proclaimed a 12-mile danger zone for all shipping on the coasts of Italy and her colonies.

The German bombers attacking England apparently were aiming at airports, the air ministry reported, and dropped explosives in Yorkshire, Lincolnshire, Norfolk and along the busy banks of the Thames.

One raider was reported apparently shot down and six persons were hurt, but damage was slight, the British announced.

The government renewed appeals to parents to register their children for removal to safer areas.

The German military command contended that its new and mammoth drive against the French, with hardly a moment's breathing spell since completion of the furious 26-day Flanders campaign, already had broken through the French defenses in two telling thrusts.

One drive is toward Paris, the other toward the channel port of Le Havre, with the aim of separating the French from the British allies, the Germans said.

The claimed breaks in General Weygand's Somme-Aisne defense front were described as being on the Aisne-Oise canal and between the mouth of the Somme and the old town of Ham.

The canal is 65 to 70 miles from Paris, while the German right-wing attack was said by the Nazi command to be on a 50-mile stretch from Ham to Abbeville.

The French, however, related that as the German spearheads plunged into the defense lines, they were broken off, and that not a single tank penetrated General Weygand's quickly-prepared system on which may depend the salvation of France.

The German attack has been checked generally all along the line, authorized French sources reported.

The French were not too specific in describing the Weygand arrangement but did say that German tanks advanced through open spaces in the frontal defenses only to be battered to a halt by successive "support points."

Reynaud dropped Foreign Minister and Former Premier Edouard Daladier from his government and made other changes. Already premier and war minister, Reynaud also took over the foreign ministry. He thus controls almost single-handed France's conduct of the war.

Italy gave no explanation for her warning to shipping, but mining of principal harbors, at least, was believed probable. Italian fire sirens and industrial whistles were ordered silenced and will be used only as possible air raid alarms.

Berlin Reports French Retreat at Several Points

By Associated Press

BERLIN—Germany's reinforced armies on the western front were reported in authorized German circles today to have "thrust into the heart of France" on the second day of their big offensive.

The French armies were reported retreating today at all points where the Germans penetrated the Weygand line yesterday, and the Nazi legions were said to be making good progress.

Two of the "several" points which the high command announced breaking in the Weygand line were said authoritatively to have been at Amiens and along the Ailette river.

(The Ailette river roughly parallels the Ailette canal, linking the Oise and Aisne rivers about 5 miles northeast of Paris.)

The Weygand line, authorized German sources said, "proved on the very first day that it cannot hold out."

Repeated Allied air raids during the night hours, especially over the western and southwestern fringes of Germany, caused increasing irritation here. They were interpreted by Germans as "attempts to sow unrest" on the German domestic front.

Supported by the air force and ramming into the opposition with a great concentration of tanks, the German army was hammering at the northern defenses of Paris along the Somme river.

The assault was being carried out with furious energy by many fresh German divisions receiving their baptism of fire on the west front, and the high command reported that France's new Weygand line had been broken "at several places."

WRITER SEES FRENCH MEET LATEST DRIVE

Mechanized Troops Thunder Along Roads Leading to Front Lines.

light in that darkest hour when nature conspires with the sleeping habits of men to give them normally their most profound rest.

At this hour Chancellor Hitler chose to strike, but the French were savagely awake. In their monster vehicles they hurtled past at 30 to 40 miles per hour without a glimmer of light down a road so black I could barely see the walls of the houses on the other side

Only after a quarter of an hour were my eyes sufficiently accustomed to this sheer blackness to make out the difference between 10-ton trucks and great tanks which flung themselves forward on their caterpillar treads with the abandon of motorcycles.

There were hundreds, perhaps several thousand, of every variety of mechanized instruments of war.

They rushed upon each other's rear as though bent upon overtaking and smashing their predecessors in punishment for being tardy. Their desire to reach the Germans was terrifying.

The noise of their motors and the scream of their wheels as they turned a corner joined to make a sort of outcry as though these machines were yelling:

"Let us at them!"

Now from far away I could hear artillery, first muffled and then clearer. Already the issue was joined and those who had called for force to settle things were meeting force.

Out of this clash of forces will come a decision which will affect the lives of every human being on earth and perhaps the lives of their children for many generations.

No one could be a witness to these vast events without reflecting upon their wider consequences, but as I watched the French motorized columns going forward at full tilt toward battle, like old-time cavalry charging, I though suddenly: what has happened to the men I left a few hours ago?

We had spent the day in the front lines, some times at places not 20 yards from the Germans. Those were truly hours of peace before the storm. We came up through lush fields and thick, cool forests and down a grassy canyon to a stream which divided the two great armies and was meant to be the line upon which the battle would be fought.

In this moment of crisis every post was manned and only commissariat troops remained in rear positions. At one of those within a stone's throw, however, of the Germans a big duck waddled around a farmyard, leading a little flock of golden yellow ducklings Their feeble quacks were the only sounds to break the noonday quiet, until from far overhead came a throbbing.

With field glasses we could see a squadron of German Messerschmidts, like silver leaves floating.

Cautiously we crossed on a footwide bridge of floating planks, for the Germans here were still beyond. On the other side of the water we plunged into dank underbrush and followed a tunnel cut through the branches until we emerged at the foot of a ruined house. Beside it was a bridge freshly blown up.

The force of the explosion was such that it broke every window and took tile and slate roofs off every building within a half mile.

French soldiers lay beside their machine guns, eating a mid-day meal of lentils and beef. The food smelled appetizing and gave a curious, homelike atmosphere to this abode of death.

Upstairs in what was left of the second floor, however, it ceased to remind one of home. Through gaps in the walls we looked out into dense woods on the other side of the stream.

"Step back. Don't show yourself. Les Boches are right over there not 20 yards away," said an officer quietly.

With binoculars we scanned the German lines.

"They are looking over here, just as you are," commented our guide.

"Can you see any of them. If you can we might take a shot at them. They killed one of our men right there beside this wall the other day and six more several days ago."

We saw nothing but that fact failed to impair the sense of tension from the knowledge that there before us, near enough to speak, were hidden men equipped with instruments and above all with a will to kill.

From prisoners taken during the last few hours the French had learned of a constantly increasing concentration of German troops, and from these and other signs it had now become evident that Hitler was about to launch his thunderbolt.

These troops felt it, but if they had the slightest apprehension they kept it well concealed.

We slipped back through the grassy tunnel, across the plank bridge.

"You are the first newspaperman as far as I know to get that close to the Germans since this battle began," remarked the captain. "But I wonder now when Les Boches will start."

We parted with a handshake . . . and "Good luck."

As I leaned out of the window in my village behind the lines and listened to the distant battle and watched the French fling their reserves I wondered what happened to him.

SWIMMING AIDS BLIND CHILDREN GET CONFIDENCE

One of Best Exercises for Handicapped Youth Says Athletic Instructor.

RALEIGH, N. C. —(U.P.)— Students at the North Carolina Institute for the Blind are learning to swim, and instructors find the students have more confidence in the water than on the land.

The scene is always the same when the boys take the pool. One slowly slides his bare feet along the springboard until he gropes his way to the edge. A confident grin breaks out and with a yell of delight he dives into the pool, and comes up spluttering to shout again.

One by one the other boys follow him into the school swimming pool and soon the place is a bedlam. Some of the boys are graceful divers, but most of them hit old-fashioned "belly-busters."

Fear Soon Disappears.

All swim well once the fear of water is overcome. Duckings are frequent as the sightless swimmers bang into one another, but no one seems to mind. And it is with considerable difficulty and repeated blasts on her whistle that Miss Rowena Wilkinson, instructor in physical education, can get them out of the pool a half hour later.

The girls are just as confident in the pool, but their behavior is quite different. Most of them prefer to paddle about rather than to try to dive. All of them, however, lose their uncertainty when they get into the pool, for there is nothing to stumble against.

Miss Wilkinson is teaching a group of smaller girls to swim. She makes no effort to hurry any of her pupils because it takes them some time to feel at home in the pool. Several girls of 7 and 8 paddle around like ducks and show promise of becoming strong swimmers.

Helps Build Confidence.

"Swimming is one of the best possible exercises for blind children," says Miss Wilkinson. "It gives them new confidence, for once in the water they can't stumble and fall. You can see how they love it."

The idea was thought dangerous by some of the trustees when G. E. Lineberry, superintendent of the institute, first proposed installation of a swimming pool. Yet never during the years it has been in operation has there been a serious accident.

"It is impossible to say how much good the pool has done the children," Lineberry said. "They are happier and in better health. Our annual drug bill has dropped from 60 to 75 per cent since the pool was built."

4-ROOM HOME

FHA Tries Out Miniature Plan At Annapolis.

ANAPOLIS, Md.—(U.P.)—An outstanding event in the construction industry is being fostered here with the practical development of modern homes within the financial reach of families with low incomes.

The Federal Housing Administration is using this city as a "proving ground" for initiation of its modern four-room home, erected at a cost of $2,500. It contains a living room, two bedrooms, kitchen and bath and an unfinished attic suitable for two more rooms or a recreation room.

Of necessity the homes are not elaborate but are comfortably designed with simplicity as their keynote. All rooms are cross-ventilated and a dining nook in the large kitchen serves as the dining room.

Some of the homes are being erected under title II of the National Housing Act at an owner cost of $15 a month over a 25 year period. Others are choosing title I, paying $21 a month for 15 years.

TWO TOOTS FOR PEACE OF MIND

Public Wants to Know When Fire Has Been Put Out, Too.

THREE RIVERS, Mich. —(AP)— The City Club of Three Rivers wants the local fire whistle to sound twice—once when the fire starts and then later on when it's out. Too many citizens, they claim, do a lot of needless worrying after the initial alarm.

"They always used to toot the whistle at least once—and sometimes they'd give it a couple of toots—to show the blaze was extinguished, and there was no further need for worry," explained L. S. Dooley, a merchant.

"Now you go along for hours after the alarm is sounded, figuring that the town may be burning down."

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Knox Advocates Direct War Equipment Aid to Allies

SAYS GERMANS PRESENT REAL MENACE TO U.S.

Would Send Army Planes and Over-Age Destroyers to France and Britain.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Col. Frank Knox advocated today that the United States furnish France and Great Britain with everything short of soldiers to help win the war.

Our neutrality has been a sham," said the publisher of the Chicago Daily News, who was the Republican vice presidential nominee in 1936. "We have always been for the Allies, and everything we have done or can do to help them will be a direct contribution to American security."

Three weeks ago, with the approval of President Roosevelt and the army's chief of staff, Knox initiated "aviation Plattsburgs," a patriotic civilian movement to train 15,000 pilots in military flying this summer and 30,000 men during the next school year.

In today's interview he dealt with American defense problems in their broadest aspects, solemnly declaring it was "simply impossible to exaggerate the danger facing America if the Allied cause is lost."

Knox recommended that the United States army make its first line fighting planes available to Britain and France while there was still time to use them.

"Five hundred planes would be a God-send to the French right now," he said. "We are not in any immediate danger, and we could quickly replace ships sent to Europe with even more up-to-date models. We might also sell the Allies our over-age destroyers without impairing our naval strength. It would be much better to send them our ships and planes now than our boys later."

A student of war who has a fighting background (he was a Rough Rider in the Spanish-American conflict and an artillery officer in the World war,) Knox declared:

"That balance of power about which we heard so much has meant our security in the past," he said. "With it destroyed we may have to face two ways in the next war — toward a triumphant Germany in Europe and a triumphant Japan in Asia.

"We have falsely believed that the Atlantic ocean was a bulwark of defense. Contemplate for a mament the result of a German conquest—what the position would be in respect to warships and a merchant marine.

"She would have her own efficient ship building yards, plus those of Italy and the fine facilities of Norway. She could build seven ships to our one unless we increase our ship building capacity seven times.

"It means that what we have always considered a bulwark becomes an avenue of attack; and that not only means a military danger, but an absolute strangulation of our world trade.

"A dominant Germany is a direct menace to the United States."

Knox asserted there would be a very real danger of attack from the direction of Mexico. "There's a revolution right now in Panama, right next to the canal, fomented no doubt by German influences."

"What we need to do is just what we are doing, thank God," he declared. "The future safety of the western world depends first on sea power and then on air power. We must achieve both."

Mexican Artist Declares Screen Star Saved Life

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—Diego Rivera, famous Mexican artist, said today that film Actress Paulette Goddard probably had saved his life.

Rivera, who came to San Francisco to paint a series of murals at the Golden Gate exposition and the University of California, said he was forced into hiding by gunmen after the attempted assassination of Leon Trotzky 10 days ago. He slipped away while Miss Goddard and Irene Bohus, American painter, acted as "decoys" for half a dozen gunmen watching his home, he said.

"A few days after the Trotzky shooting, Miss Goddard and Miss Bohus were in my studio," he said. "Outside they saw two cars full of men. I knew they came for me, so I went downstairs secretly and hid in my car in the garage. When the car came out with the chauffeur, Miss Bohus got in openly and drove away. Then I went into hiding.

"Twenty minutes after I left, 20 men drove up in a station wagon. They immobilized my servants and searched my house."

Rivera implied that Miss Goddard remained in the house while he was fleeing and was there when the gunmen broke in, but he was vague on this point. He insisted however, that she had saved his life.

Fifth Column Scare Centers In Costa Rica

Up and Down THE STREET

The next time young Jack Nichols, son of Atty. and Mrs. R. J. Nichols, 356 Lexington avenue, goes exploring it probably won't be in a garage. The four-year-old youngster caused his parents and police several hours of concern yesterday afternoon when he turned up missing shortly after noon. He was found by his anxious father about 5 p. m. in the family car in the garage. The boy had climbed in the car and then couldn't get the door open to get out, Nichols told officers when he telephoned police headquarters to call off the search.

Richard Dent, formerly ace drum major with the Mansfield High school band, twirled and strutted his stuff yesterday in the big Peony Festival parade at Van Wert. Dent went over for the show and met the band director from an Indiana town in which the Mansfield boy had appeared once with the Senior High band. The director asked him to lead his band as drum major in the parade which 72 bands from several states marched. A number of Mansfield people attended the flower show. Incidentially, the Van Wert Peony Festival, which now commands attention among the flower shows of the nation, was launched while John C. Routzon, secretary of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, was head of the Van Wert Chamber of Commerce.

Sheriff E. P Long contended it was "just a coincidence" last night when he was called to the telephone just as the collection plate was passed to him at the county officials' and employes' dinner at the Schwarz tavern. The only official called to the telephone during the evening, the sheriff left at the "most opportune time," his table companions said. They wouldn't let him forget it for the rest of the evening.

FIVE ARRAIGNED ON THEFT COUNT

Woman, Youth, and Two Men Get Probation, Third Man Sent to Reformatory.

Facing indictments for burglary and larceny, three men, a woman, and one minor were arraigned in Crawford county courts this morning.

The woman, Beatrice Kemle, pleaded guilty to charges of larceny in the amount of $40, allegedly taken from J. S. Ethell. She was ordered by the common pleas court to pay costs and report once each month to an officer of the court during one year's probation.

For the charged buglarizing of 100 bushels of wheat from the Herman Sutter farm north of Bucyrus, Eugene Sutter received an indeterminate sentence in the State reformatory at Mansfield, and Wayne Fitzgerald was placed on a year's probation. Both men pleaded guilty.

Ernest Stuckey, a minor, indicted in connection with the Sutter burglary, was placed on probation from probate court.

Also given a one year probationary period was Raymond Hare who pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with burglary of the R. S. Shaw restaurant, Galion.

LIGHTER FARE TO PREDOMINATE DURING PLAYERS' NEXT SEASON

The recently elected board of governors of the Mansfield Community Players held their re-organization meeting last night at the home of Earl Heasley, 767 West Fourth street.

Officers elected were Laurence Todd, president; Harvey Bailey, vice-president; Kathleen Sturges, secretary; and John McCann, business manager.

Mrs. E. K. Bacon will continue as director of the plays and in the first production next fall will be assisted by Herbert H. Schettler and John McCann.

Three plays will be given next season and it was unanimously decided last night that comedy should be the predominating factor in all of them. This is contrary to the Players' program in past years and was decided upon in view of depressing world conditions.

Last season the Players broadened their series to the community by offering one-act plays, without charge, to clubs of the city. This year the scope will be widened, and when the club season opens the Players will have several one-act plays ready to present.

The play reading committee which is made up of the three directors and the president of the board, will have not less than five plays ready to submit to the general board at the next meeting, which will be Aug. 21.

FACES CHARGE

Accused Molester Held For Action by Parole Board.

Donnell D. McFadden, 33, paroled from the Ohio State reformatory last February, was back in custody today after officials at New Washington arrested him last night on charges of molesting young girls.

Six girls, between the ages of 15 and 17 had told officials of being molested. Marshall Murrell Evans, who made the arrest, said that McFadden, who worked on the Oscar Carrick farm, readily admitted the offenses. He was turned over to Albert French of Crawford county, where he is being held pending action by the Ohio board of paroles.

McFadden still had five years to serve on a maximum sentence of 15 years for assault with intent to rape.

GRENADES AND RIFLES FOUND NEAR PANAMA

Mexico and Argentina Take Further Steps Against Subversive Elements.

(By United Press)

The tiny republic of Costa Rica in Generti America, lying between Nicaragua and Panama and bounded by the Caribbean sea and the Pacific ocean, drew major attention today in the fight against fifth column activities in Latin America.

At Golfito, near the Pacific coast of that country authorities found a cache of several hundred hand grenades and rifles and immediately posted strong guards on the Panama frontier.

Authorities said it concerned an alleged revolt plot that the Panamanian government frustrated last week.

But the well-informed in the tiny republic were inclined to take a more serious view. A German private airline pilot from Punta Renas was removed from his post. Suspected fifth column members were under close observation, but authorities said the matter "was under complete control."

The Costa Rica discovery spurred anti fifth-column activity in other countries.

In Mexico, Garzia Tellez, secretary of the interior, ordered a check-up of all foreigners in important Mexican cities to facilitate the round-up of those who entered illegally.

In Argentina, passage was virtually assured tonight or tomorrow for the government-sponsored bill aimed at checking fifth column activities. The bill prohibits citizens of belligerent countries from becoming citizens of Argentina while the war lasts, empowers the president to dissolve foreign groups he deems harmful, and regulates foreign and Argentine press publications.

TRAINMAN DIES

Former Resident of Crestline Succumbs at Canton.

CRESTLINE — John S. Reed, 60, former resident of Crestline, died Wednesday at his home, 416 Fifth avenue, N. W., Canton, after a brief illness. He had been employed by the Pennsylvania railroad as freight conductor for the past 36 years. He was born April 3, 1880, in Wayne county.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

You Can't Print That:

(This is a compendium of tales that can only be told without names, because they're too true to print. If there is any resemblance to actual persons—living or dead—you've probably guessed right.)

Currently, Miss X, is delighting the audiences at one of the better Latin night clubs with her gay songs, her continental manner, and Gallic charm. Of course, it's difficult for her to cope with American lyrics, so she sometimes gives a word a completely different meaning—but that just adds to her fascination. She seems as French as the Champs Elysees, as Parisienne as a sidewalk cafe on a busy boulevard. As soon as she is a bit surer of our language, the experts predict, she'll be a feminine Maurice Chevalier.

Oh, yes! If she ever had any trouble losing an accent, it was a Brooklyn accent. She's just a girl from Flatbush who couldn't get a break in any of the bistros until she disguised herself as an importation. Now she's a terrific success, proving that Broadwayites still find it fun to be fooled.

But you can't print that. Why not give the little girl a break?

* * *

Miss Y. was one of the brightest comediennes who ever made the baldheaded row feel like the stag line at a Yale prom.

Broadway adored her for her ready wit and her beauty, original style, and when Hollywood began to produce those first musical extravaganzas, she was one of the first to score a solid success. She was a big, husky girl, never a beauty, and she had that infallible sense of humor that earns a girl the tag of "regular fellow," so all her friends, who couldn't see underneath, were sure there wasn't a bit of sentiment or romance in her make-up.

Mr. Q. was, and still is, one of the highest paid production heads in Hollywood. He has been separated from his wife—a gorgeous belle with a terrible temper—for a good many years, but she refuses to divorce him, and she demands a large slice of his income.

Back in Y.'s early days in the film colony she fell in love with the producer, and he, who had had his fill of beauty and headaches, fell in love with the good-natured comedienne. But she realized that the brilliance of her name would make him a target for the gossip mongers, so overnight she faded from the public eye. She forfeited contracts in the six-figures bracket.

That's why you haven't heard her name for five or six years, and so few of her old friends know what has become of her. All this time she has patiently waited for his wife to release him. She willingly went from stardom to obscurity, because—although you'd never dream she was the romantic type—she thinks love is worth any sacrifice.

But you can't print that. She's an interloper, isn't she—how can you be sympathetic toward the Other Woman?

* * *

The hero of this story came to New York from the middle west with a name like Joe Smith—it wasn't that, of course, but it was almost as plain and American. He was without a job or money and things were pretty difficult until he was befriended by a titled Englishman who took him in tow, bought him clothes, gave him spending money and introduced him to the cafe society characters around the Stork, 21 and El Morocco.

But this friendship broke up after a while, and the boy went to work at the first thing he could get—selling hosiery from door to door. One afternoon, as he was strolling his "beat" he ran into one of his former benefactor's friends, who invited him to a cocktail party. Hosiery and all, Joe Smith went.

Once the party was under way and he'd had a couple of drinks, Joe got bold. He took out the sample case and started to sell stockings to the guests. Everybody thought it was a simply wonderful gag, and everybody laughed, and everybody bought a pair of stockings, just to keep in the spirit of the joke. Joe got the reputation of being a wit and a sophisticate—so, of course, he got invited to more and more parties, and he became a cafe society figure himself.

But by this time his name is a little changed—it's not Joe Smith any more. It's pretty near that, but it sounds much swankier.

So no wonder, when his marriage to a famous beauty was reported the other day, the newspapers described him as a "socially prominent playboy."

But you can't print that. You've got to give him credit for getting along, don't you?

* * *

Miss Q., more than a decade ago, received almost as much front page publicity as Lindbergh did when he flew the Atlantic. Her romances and her riches made headlines and stamped her indelibly as a femme fatale. Miss R., on the other hand, is one of those apparently awfully innocent girls with a baby stare and a naive line of chatter.

Miss Q. was madly in love with a Manhattan business executive. Some months ago she sailed for Europe and became very friendly, during the voyage, with Miss R., who happened to be occupying the next stateroom. Miss Q. told Miss R. all about her adoration for the big business man, and how she was sure it would turn out to be a 14-karat romance. When the girls got back to America, she took Miss R. along on a few dates with executive, just to prove how really nice he was.

Soon afterwards, Miss Q. went to Florida and rented a house. She wrote Miss R., inviting her down to be her house guest, and she mentioned, in the letters, that she felt very badly because her business man beau hadn't been very attentive lately.

She'd been in Florida a month when she ran into Miss R., in the dining room of the Roney-Plaza.

"Why didn't you tell me you were coming south?" She asked her baby-faced friend. "You know I wanted you to stay at my house?"

Miss R. really blushed this time, and really stammered. It was so difficult explaining that she didn't want to be Miss Q.'s house guest, because she was in Florida honeymooning with the big business man Miss Q. was so crazy about!

But you can't print that. The girl who lost out would take such a ribbing from her friends, ar! she's trying to forget.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Lynne Overman should wait awhile before collecting a bet he has won.

It's a nickel bet with Shirley Temple. It was made six years ago, when Overman was making his first picture and Shirley, then little known, was "also in the cast" of "Little Miss Marker."

"I knew then she'd be the biggest box-office draw Hollywood had ever seen," says Lynne, "because she was the most talented youngster I'd ever met. But—I also bet her a nickel I'd last in pictures longer than she would; Shirley has retired, and here I am still struggling along."

Shirley, retired at 11, doubtless can afford to pay the bet, but I say Overman ought'nt to be too sure of victory. Sooner or later, Shirley will be back . . . the overtures had begun even before her "retirement" was officially announced . . .

There's an interesting example of Hollywood's new reckless name-calling in the movie "Mystery Sea Raider." It's a war piece, the City of Flint incident and the Altmark prison ship affair combined in fiction. There's no doubt about the countries involved; one of the opening shots shows the giant Bremen leaving New York harbor for its ghostly escape through the war zone; Onslow Stevens plays a German secret agent who commissions a run-down freighter, captained by Henry Wilcoxson, for unknown war duty. The girl (Carole Landis) goes along, of course . . .

Movie decorators, with all that money to spend, aren't infallible. In "Rhythm on the River" Basil Rathbone occupies an elegant, modernistic penthouse apartment. One entire wall is covered with books—to the 20-foot ceiling. The effect is striking except that—as Rathbone pointed out—he wasn't quite tall enough to reach the top shelf. So practical a detail as a library ladder had been omitted.

WOMEN NOT SO HOT DECLARES HARVARD PROF.

Says Temperatures Here and There Average Lower Than Mere Male's.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Women's feet and hands average five degrees cooler than men's, their arms four degrees cooler, legs and head three, and trunk half a degree cooler than those of the male.

These measurements were reported to the American Industrial Hygiene association by Prof. C. P. Yaglou of the Harvard school of Public Health.

They illustrate a dilemma of the air-conditioning engineer who, Yaglou said, gets a howl from the men when he makes the room comfortable for the women.

In spite of the fundamental temperature differences of the sexes, he said that both could be happy if both would wear similar weight clothing. This means less for men in summer and more for women in winter.

Men dressed in women's summer clothing, weight 1.8 piunds, compared with 5 pounds of usual male attire, demanded a temperature of 80 for comfort, despite the fact that in male attire they had "howled" previously at 76 as too hot.

"Reversely," he said, "when women wore men's winter clothes (8.3 pounds instead of 2.6 pounds, the average of women's indoor winter garb) the comfortable air temperature was just as low (70.5) as that preferred by men in male clothing."

He pointed out that both men and women agreed they were most comfortable with a mean skin temperature of 91.5 to 93.

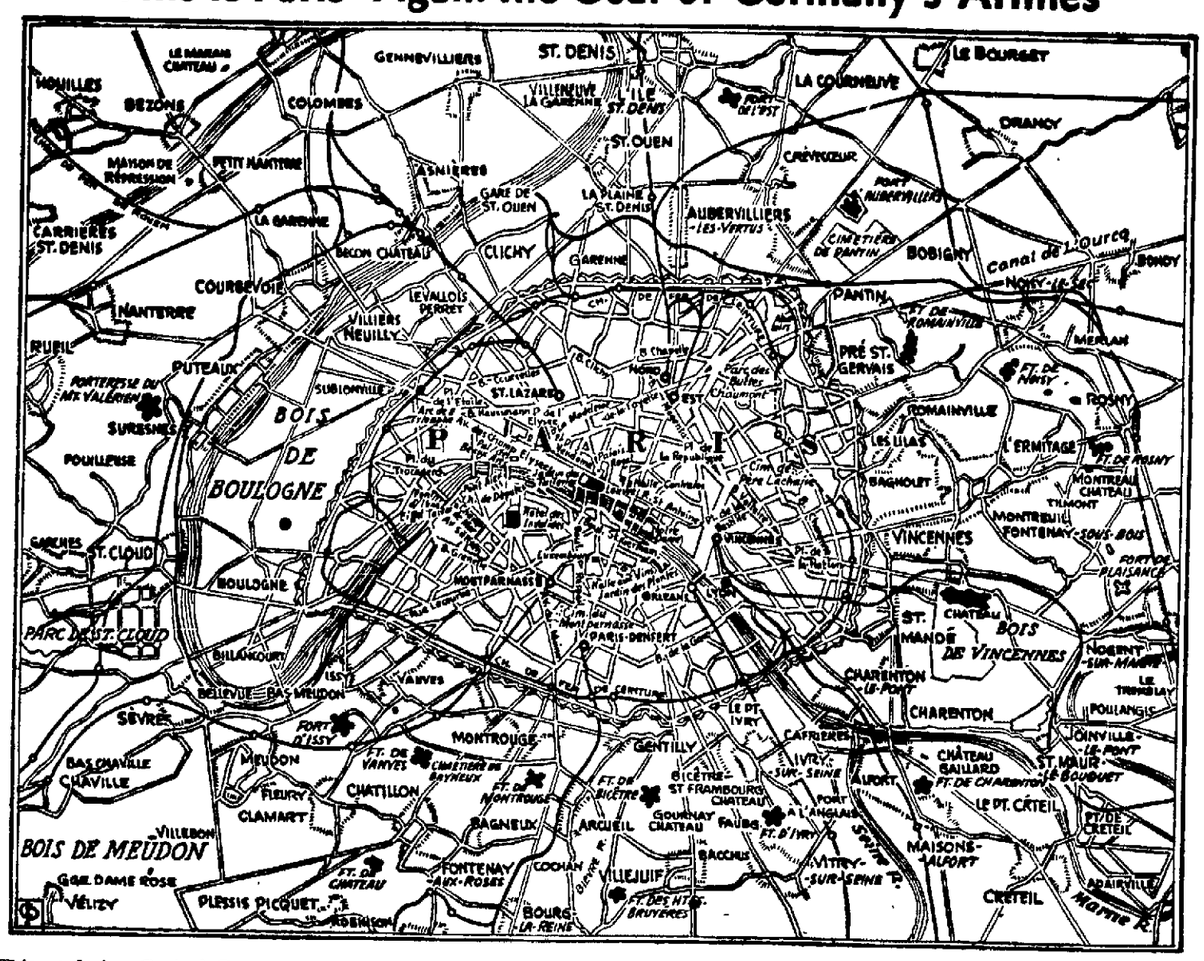
This Is Paris--Again the Goal of Germany's Armies



This exclusive Central Press detailed map shows Paris, capital of France, and its forts, suburbs and environs. Note how the Seine river, spanned by many bridges, winds through the heart of the great city. These spans might be made "military objectives" by German forces and a mass air attack on them would necessarily bring great destruction to the city itself. As may be seen on the map, Paris is completely surrounded by a ring of fortifications. Though threatened twice by German armies during the World war, Paris has not seen an enemy within its gates since 1871, when the city fell to Prussian forces under the late great military genius, General Helmuth von Moltke. Paris was founded about 100 B. C., by the Parisii, a Gallic tribe, and was first captured by Julius Caesar.

California Uses Reno as Nearest 'Gretna Green'

RENO, Nev.— (U.P.) —Since passage of California's pre-martial medical examination law last year, Nevada's quota of honeymooners has more than doubled.

Several hundred couples come here each month for a quick wedding, and the vagaries of the moonstruck ones include:

A couple who pawned the man's watch to buy a wedding ring.

A bridegroom who didn't forget the ring, but forgot the $2 for the license so his bride-to-be had to go into an anteroom and dig into her stocking for the fee.

A bride who recently had been divorced, gave her previous marriage name for the new license, drove to another county to be married and found that her marriage license was no good.

And the newlyweds who, from different California towns, arrived at different times and registered at—separate hotels.

MIDGET HORSES REPORTED SEEN

National Park Service Plans Extensive Investigation Of Latest Rumors.

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. —(U.P.) —The National Park Service is making an intensive investigation of rumors that a race of midget horses is living in the depths of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

The old legend was given new life when Jack Taylor, a railroad engineer, said he discovered two of the midgets—one less than 17 inches tall.

Tooker said he had trapped two of the animals in a hidden box canyon with the help of the Haulpi Indians. One of them, a mare was about seven years old, weighed about 80 pounds and was 30 inches high, Tooker said.

The smaller of the two, a colt about a year old, was 17 inches high and weighed 19 pounds.

The park service announced it would send an expedition into the canyon. However, because Tooker had not produced the horses, they were inclined to be skeptical of the reported capture.

Haulpi Indians and other tribesmen from northern Arizona, hearing of the capture, flocked to the canyon to see living proof of the legendary horses which are part of the mythology of the Indian.

African Setting for Maisie.

An African interior village, a seaport and a medical research compound, surrounded by jungle provided authentic scenes for "Congo Maisie" featuring Ann Sothern and John Carroll showing at the Ritz theater Friday and Saturday. This is Ann's second "Maisie" role, with a story of a girl who is stranded in an African sea coast town with board bill she can't pay. "Across the Plains," starring Jack Randall, is the co-feature.

One of the Greater Classics.

A curse that persisted through the ages and a love that could not be defeated by misfortune and disaster are the outstanding features of "The House of the Seven Gables" heading the bill at the Madison. The picture is the screen dramatization of Nathaniel Hawthorne's famous novel, one of the great classics of American literature. Zane Grey's "The Light of the Western Stars" is the co-feature.

* * *

Melvyn and Joan Co-starred.

Joan Blondell and Melvyn Douglas are co-starred for the third time, and the latest is "The Amazing Mr. Williams" which opens Friday at the Majestic. The new comedy drama presents Joan as a mayor's secretary who is affianced to a super-sleuth, Douglas, with more time for murder than for marriage. What keeps the two apart until the climax comprises the entertainment. As a second feature there is "Chip of the Flying U" with Johnny Mack Brown in the lead.

ENDS RECORD.

MERCER, Pa. —(U.P.)— Illness has broken the 25-year perfect attendance record at Sunday school for Miss Eva Blair. She enrolled in the Emery Bible class at the Methodist church here March 10, 1915. On March 10, 1940, she attended and was presented a medal commemorating her record. Soon afterward she became ill.

FORESTS PAY

Ashland County Gets Biggest Profit From Project.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Forestry is beginning to pay dividends to Ohio counties

A total of $1,171 has been turned over to the general funds of 10 counties on the basis of the sale of forest products during 1939 according to O. A Alderman, state forester

The money was turned over to the subdivisions under the appropriation bill for the division of forestry which provided that 25 per cent of the income from the sale of state forest products be turned back to the counties in which the forests are located.

Largest single payment was made to Ashland county which received $466. Among other counties, Pike received $360; Ross, $133; Hocking, $96; Highland, $55; Vinton, $19. and Athens, $18.

Alderman stated that the actual amounts in most instances do not appear large but he pointed out that much of the forest and waste land in eastern and southern Ohio is tax delinquent, bringing in nothing to the county treasuries

Mansfield Registers Twin Victory Over Fostoria Club

Beals Collects Two Home Runs In Night Cap

Club Wallops Red Birds, 10-2 and 18-7, to Increase Third-Place Advantage.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE MANSFIELD BRAVES may not win the Ohio State league championship this season—but there's one thing that's certain—they'll be a serious threat all the way.

Unleashing their greatest batting attack of the season, the hard-hitting Braves piled up 35 hits as they handed Fostoria two defeats in a doubleheader at the Fairground yesterday. The scores were 10 to 2 and 18 to 7.

Manager Dewey Stover today has a happy smile on his face as his Warriors invade Fostoria to meet the Red Birds in a single contest tonight under the floodlights. Bob Arnold is scheduled to toe the rubber.

Stover was impressed by the pitching performances of George Laurila and Tony Scotti and the sensational hitting and fielding of his star shortstop, Howard Beals.

* * *

Laurila, who worked three innings against Lima here Wednesday night, was Stover's selection to hurl the afternoon game and he set the Red Birds down with eight hits.

* * *

Scotti, lanky righthander, who joined the Braves yesterday, brought cheers from the 350 spectators last night as he turned in his initial league triumph. On option from Fargo-Moorhead, N. D., in the Northern league, Scotti coupled his fast one with an assortment of curves to whiff 13 Red Birds.

He set Fostoria down without a hit in the first four frames, but appeared tired as the game progressed and the Red Birds began solving his slants. The lead piled up by the Braves, however, was too much to overcome.

Beals, who collected two doubles and a single in the first tilt, came back last night to pound out a pair of home runs and a single. Harry Seigbert was also on tap to share the batting honors as he got "four for five" in the night setto.

Beals, who has been improving constantly this season, topped all his previous exhibitions in the field yesterday. He made several nifty stops behind third base and threw the runner out at first. And he was in the three doubleplays the Braves clicked off.

Mansfield didn't wait long in either contest to provide its moundsmen with a comfortable lead. In the initial game the Braves tallied four times in the first and Laurila didn't have any trouble silencing the Red Birds' bats.

The Braves went to work on Bob Greenberg in the night setto and piled up a five-run lead at the end of the third frame.

Chief Stover and his tribe ran wild in the fifth inning of the second affray to send nine runs across the plate. A feature of the batting spree were home runs by Dick Morse and Beals, the latter getting his with two on base.

Beals added his second four bagger in the seventh with Al Hundemer on the path. Incidentally, Beals and Hundemer drove in 10 of the 18 runs.

While Mansfield was enjoying a field day, Scott was coasting along nicely. He gave up three runs in the sixth and four in the eighth and set the Red Birds down in order in the ninth.

Fremont managed to push over single runs in the fifth and seventh against Laurila, who marked up his second win of the year.

* * *

Three Fremont pitchers went to the hill against Mansfield. Bob Strange and Rados following Greenberg.

* * *

The twin victory enabled Mansfield to pick up a half game on the pace-making Findlay Oilers. Findlay beat Fremont, 7 to 2, and Lima stopped Tiffin, 12 to 3.

Junior Pitches Teammates to 7 to 2 Victory

Thompson Rolls Up Seventh Win as Cincinnati Licks Giants.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Junior Thompson may not turn out to be just what the doctor ordered to augment the champion mound combination of Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer but most of the Reds feel that he will come mighty close to it.

* * *

The husky young hurler took a 7-2 decision over the Giants last night to give Cincinnati an edge over the determined Dodgers before the two teams meet in a showdown series for the league leadership here Friday.

* * *

Thompson, who came up from the minors last year to win 13 and lose five games, allowed the Giants 11 hits but he held them in the pinches and fanned five men. It was Junior's seventh victory of the season compared to four defeats.

The Reds hopped on Harry Gumbert for five runs in the second inning of their first game under the lights this year and rode on to victory. Three doubles by Thompson, Lonnie Frey and Harry Craft paced the effective drive.

* * *

Cincinnati added two more in the third but after that was stopped by Giant relief hurlers Jim Lynn, Paul Dean and Rookie Hy Vanderberg. The Reds collected only seven hits.

* * *

A Dodger victory over St. Louis today would leave the Reds still in front, while the Flatbush gang faced the prospect of meeting Bucky Walters, out for his tenth straight victory, in their first encounter here.

'B' LEAGUE TEAMS TEE OFF AT POSSUM TONIGHT

Eight teams in The News-Journal Class "B" golf league will tee off tonight at Possum Run as follows: Tinkey Lumber vs. City News, News-Journal vs. Tuckers, Elks Club vs. Junior Association of Commerce, and Central Fruit vs. Bissman company.

Here and There In Mansfield Sports

By CHARLES MARTIN

HOWARD BEALS, the Mansfield Braves' shortstop, seems to have found himself. Last season he played second base with the team and while turning in a creditable performance, he has always wanted to play at short.

* * * * *

Today he is smacking the ball at a .326 clip and has been fielding sensationally. With Al Hundemer, rookie second baseman, playing alongside of him, it's likely that Mansfield will have one of the top-notch keystone combinations in the league this year.

* * * * *

Hundemer, who joined the Braves at Fremont a little over a week ago, has won a place for himself in the hearts of the Braves' fans. A product of the Cincinnati sandlots, Hundemer is filling the hole that existed in the infield. His hitting is on a par with the best second sackers in the Ohio State league.

* * * * *

Reports have been circulating in Mansfield sports circles that the Sons of Herman softball team (formerly the DeLuxe Cabs) is not on a par with the 1939 club which reached the finals in the state softball tournament.

Apparently, the Hermans are out to better last year's mark. In handing the strong Lorain Hart Jewelers a double defeat at Liberty park Sunday, the Hermans established themselves as one of the state's top combines. The Jewelers are the Lorain city champions.

* * * * *

"Odie" Van Nostrand, southpaw who beat Lima 7 to 4 here Sunday in his debut, is a former Mt. Vernon high football star. He played under Coach Paul Snyder, Mansfield Senior high mentor, at Mt. Vernon in 1936. . . . He was the club's ace fullback.

* * * * *

Russell Gimbel, district A. A. U. boxing commissioner, may conduct a district Golden Gloves tournament in Mansfield early in 1941. . . . The winners will be eligible to participate in the Cleveland classic.

* * * * *

"Honeyboy" Jones, Mansfield, one of the better professional middleweights, was visiting here last week. He has returned to Syracuse, N. Y., to continue his fight career. Incidentally, if things can be lined up, Jones may headline a pro fight card in Mansfield this summer.

* * * * *

Mansfield amateur fight promoters have been having a hard time lining up a worthy opponent for Mansfield's Paul Carbetta, promising bantamweight, but it looks like they have finally accomplished the feat. . . . Carbetta is scheduled to tangle with "Buddy" Smallwood of Akron in one of the headline matches in an indoor show at the Friendly House around June 20.

Smallwood won the Cleveland tourney open title this spring and Carbetta is itching to get a crack at him. Paul lost out in a semi-final bout at Cleveland.

* * * * *

With the election of Art Hilborn as president of the City Bowling association for the 1940-41 season Mansfield keglers may take more interest in the leagues and tournaments staged here. . . . Every circuit in the city has a delegate in the association. . . . The group will set up rules for the loops and keep in constant touch with the American Bowling Congress.

* * * * *

Beauford Glover, crack lightweight, may turn pro this year, according to rumors. . . . Glover, the only Mansfield fighter ever to win a Cleveland Golden Gloves open title, is working in Cleveland. If he switches to the professional game, promoters may have him on a card this summer.

* * * * *

Four of the regulars of the Mansfield Braves are hitting over the .300 mark. They are Dick Morse .368; Beals, 326; Eldon Dice .324, and Matt Miazga .304.

* * * * *

Floyd Dent, boy scout executive, and Gimbel, director of the Friendy House, are planning to organize a Friendly House Junior Knot-hole baseball league for youths under 12 years.

Action as Braves Chalk Up Wins at Fairground

David, Fostoria first baseman is shown here as he was out on a throw from Howard Beals to Harry Seigbert. Seigbert's glove can be seen over David's left shoulder. It happened in the first inning of the opener.

Here is Harry Seigbert, No. 3, taking a throw from Howard Beals to retire Rados, Fremont second baseman, in the sixth inning of the afternoon game. Mansfield won the contest by a 10 to 2 score at the Fairground yesterday.

GETS COACHING JOB

FREMONT — (U.P.) — Kenneth Weber, former Bowling Green university basketball star, has been appointed coach at Townsend township high school, succeeding Floyd Gehres who has accepted a teaching position at Van Wert, it was announced today.

WOLVERINES PLAN TO FLY TO WEST COAST IN FALL

CHICAGO —(INS)— The University of Michigan football team liferally will take to the air next fall to fill its engagement with the University of California at Berkeley, Calif., it twas revealed today.

A squad of 45 Wolverines will fly to the coast from Ann Arbor, Mich., in three specially chartered transport planes, leaving Sept. 25 and arriving at San Francisco the next day.

WRECKERS PLAY

The Mansfield Wrecking company team invades Galion today to meet the National Metal Vaults in a softball tilt at 6 p. m.

Sons of Herman Meet Plymouth Softballers

The Sons of Herman softballers will be after the third win of the year when they tackle Plymouth in a single contest at 5:30 p. m. today at Liberty park. Jim Fullager is scheduled to handle the mound assignment for the Hermans. The Mansfield team is undefeated.

FINED $25

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Manager Mickey Heath and Pitcher Paul Sullivan of the Milwaukee Brewers had to cough up $25 each today as prexy George Troutman of the American Association assessed them fines for abusing Umpire Dan Tehan in Tuesday's night tilt at Indianapolis.

Teams wishing to book Davey field, Maple lake and Blue Goose ball diamonds are requested to get in touch with Don Cramm, secretary of the softball commission at the Y. M. C. A. The commission has been given full responsibility in booking games for these diamonds for the remainder of the year.

ALI BABA WINS

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Ali Baba, the terrible Turk of the wrestling world, could thank Oregon McDonald's injured hand and his own tough jaw today for his victory over the husky lumberjack. McDonald gave up shortly after the 26-minute mark.

Masterson Makes Senators Happy

20-Year-Old Hurler Holds Cleveland Indians to Four Hits.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer.

THE Washington Senators, who have little enough to cheer about this spring, are rightfully cheerful over the suddenly sensational pitching of young Walter Masterson.

This lithe righthander, who won't be 20 years old until June 22, set the Cleveland Indians on their ears 6-1 yesterday with a four-hit pitching performance that was the day's brightest achievement in the major leagues.

* * *

What made the effort more exciting for the Senators, however, was the fact that it came upon the heels of a three-hitter Masterson hurled May 30 in a seven-inning game against the Philadelphia Athletics.

* * *

Plagued by injuries, Washington hardly has been able to hold its head erect in the American league skirmishing this season, but good pitching would solve most of the club's troubles. The Nats haven't garnered less than ten hits in any of their last eight games.

They got ten yesterday, and masterful pitching by Masterson. He shut out the Tribe for eight innings before letting a run trickle across in the ninth. The verdict had been sealed in his favor by a five-run flurry in the fourth when Jim Bloodworth homered with the bases loaded.

The pesky St. Louis Browns nudged the Boston Red Sox into their third straight defeat, 4-3 in 14 innings, to preserve the one-half game margin between the Sox and Indians at the top of the standings.

Schoolboy Rowe pitched and batted the Detroit Tigers to a 9-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics in a night game. He scattered seven hits and batted in three of Detroit's runs.

The New York Yankees jumped on Lefty Thornton Lee for 12 hits and stopped the Chicago White Sox 7-5. Monte Pearson weakened in the ninth and gave up three runs.

* * *

The Cincinnati Reds improved their station in the National league with a 7-2 conquest of the New York Giants in another night contest. Gene Thompson allowed ten hits and knocked in three runs to make sure of his seventh victory.

* * *

In the only other game in the senior circuit the Chicago Cubs edged out the Phillies 3-2 with Dom Dallessandro accounting for all Chicago's runs on a double with the bases loaded.

Four Teams Win In YMCA Commercial Loop Tussles

MOOSE CLUB, Tappan Stove, Barnes Challengers, and Nick's Place softball teams came off victors in last night's tussles in the Y. M. C. A. Commercial softball league.

* * *

The Moose team nosed out the Isaly Dairys by a 10 to 9 score at Tappan field, while the Tappan outfit swamped the Town Taverns by a 9 to 2 tally at North Lake park; Barnes Challengers handed the Service Cabs a 13 to 6 trouncing at Blue Goose diamond; and Nick's Place took the Kobacker club, 10 to 4, at Liberty park.

* * *

Hitting honors in yesterday's tilts went to Musille and Miller of the Kobacker team and Mahoney of Nick's Place who connected for circuit smashes.

Johnny Allen Gets Pitching Bid for Today

Tribe Righthander to Face Either Hudlin or Sid Hudson.

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Seeking an even break in the four-game stand against the Washington Senators, Manager Oscar Vitt, beleaguered by pitching troubles, nominated Johnny Allen oh mound duty today.

* * *

Allen, winner of two games against three losses, will oppose either Willis Hudlin, former teammate who was unconditionally released by the Tribe recently, or right-handed Sid Hudson.

* * *

The "jawin' " proclivities of Roy Weatherly deprived the Indians of his services as they entered the series finale. Ejected from the first game of Tuesday's doubleheader for talking back to Umpire George Moriarty, Weatherly was fined $25 and suspended for three days by Will Harridge, American league president.

Johnny Broaca, right handed pitcher who became ineligible by refusing to report to Jersey City, returned to the Cleveland roster momentarily yesterday with his reinstatement by Commissioner K. M. Landis, but the Indians promptly released him unconditionally.

The pitching problem smote Vitt again in the Indians-Senators third game, Washington winning 6 to 1. Joe Dobson, starting for Cleveland, pitched fine ball until the fourth inning when the Nats uncorked a five-run attack. Dobson was taken out in the eighth and Mike Naymick finished.

* * *

The Nats collected 10 hits, nine of them off Dobson, while 20-year-old Walter Masterson held the Tribe to four and shut them out until the ninth.

* * *

Cleveland remained a half-game behind the league leaders as the Boston Red Sox lost to St. Louis.

Par Smashers Take To Fairways Today

By EARL HILLIGAN

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Golf's greatest show—the National Open championship—sent an all-star cast of par smashers into battle against wind and distance at Canterbury golf club today.

* * *

The defending champion in this 44th edition of the game's "world series" is slender Byron Nelson of Toledo. Lined up against him are some 169 other top flight professionals and amateurs. And up against all of them are the 6,921 yards of Canterbury's tricky terrain and the nerve-cracking, steady Lake Erie breezes which carry the prospect of producing one of the most spectacular, free-for-all fights in open history.

* * *

The players known to be consistently long and straight are given the best chance of licking the winds and Canterbury's par of 36-36—72 over the three-day, 72-hole grind.

"Slamming Sam" Snead and Ben Hogan, therefore, are rated the co-favorites at 6-1 to take the crown which Nelson won after last year's double playoff at Philadelphia. Snead has been exceptionally long and straight off the tee, while "Battering Ben," leading money winner of the winter, was hot enough to produce three sub-par practice rounds.

But there are a dozen or more others rated excellent chances of coming home in front. Ralph Guldahl, holder of the open title in 1937 and 1938, made no secret of the confidence he has in himself to become a three-time winner.

* * *

He and Nelson are bracketed in the second choice wagering with Jimmy Demaret, Craig Wood and Lawson Little, twice winner of the British and United States amateur titles and low qualifier for the nation in the sectional tests.

* * *

Rounds of 18 holes today and tomorrow will send the 60 low scorers and ties into Saturday's 36-hole final of a tournament which finds these former champions in the field: Guldahl, Johnny Farrell, Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour, Walter Hagen, Sam Parks, jr., Tony Manero, Olin Dutra and Johnny Goodman, the amateur who won the title in 1933.

'ANGEL' AGAIN!

MONTREAL — Maurice (The Angel) Tillet 276 France, defeated Yvon Robert, 224, Montreal when Robert was unable to come out for the third and deciding fall.
